

Subpoenas served for disciplinary hearing

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Several prominent local politicians and attorneys are expected to be called before a hearing at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday of the Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission of the Illinois Supreme Court at the Holiday Inn in Edwardsville.

Among those believed to have been called are members of the former Committee for an Improved Judiciary, which fought successfully during the 1980 general election to defeat the reelection bids of former Circuit Judges Victor Mesele and John DeLaurenti.

Attorneys and others who contributed large sums to that committee also are being subpoenaed, sources indicated. One of those subpoenaed, David Partney, a school board member and candidate for the Madison County Board, stressed that the witnesses being called are not suspected of any wrongful acts.

Rather, the committee wishes to collect all the information it can on the campaign which defeated Mesele and DeLaurenti. The purpose of the inquiry is to determine if any attorneys acted wrongfully in the campaign, which may have swayed the judiciary in its feelings toward wealthy and influential attorneys.

Partney was listed as an officer of the Committee for an Improved Judiciary, although he says he did not take an active part in the campaign.

Mike Manning of Granite City, a candidate for state senator, said he also has been subpoenaed and plans to repeat allegations he already has made in public and in newspapers. "I have nothing new," Manning admitted. Manning was hired by the committee to help present material that was used against the judges. He helped prepare several newspaper advertisements against the judges being retained in office.

Critics say the judges' sentencing records were used out of context, to make Mesele appear to be "soft on criminals," with DeLaurenti pictured as not being a hard-working judge.

Towards the end of that campaign, Manning changed sides and made public apologies for his behavior, saying that the newspaper advertisements were misleading. He said that his subpoena describes the investigation as "relating to attorney Morris Chapman," who was allegedly one of the major financial supporters of the effort to defeat Mesele and DeLaurenti.

It also asks for "any and all notes, memoranda, records, documents and correspondence" that Manning may have relating to the committee.

Among those named by unofficial sources as being subpoenaed are Alderman Margaret Nomm, former alderman Lloyd Bailey, Granite City School Board Member David Partney, Ed Nalefski, an employee of the Chapman and Chapman law firm, Morris Chapman, principal of that firm, Attorney William Schooley, plus possibly some prominent St. Clair County attorneys and some prominent labor leaders.

Attempts to obtain official confirmation of the names of those subpoenaed were stymied by attorneys representing the Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission. "The commission's deliberations are secret," said Dan Drake, an attorney for its Springfield office.

He referred questions to Attorney John Oswald in Chicago. Oswald declined to return a reporter's telephone calls.

Drake declined to say whether the hearing will be open to the public or will be closed.

Also unavailable for questioning was Peyton Kuncie, a former appellate judge here who is expected to be the Local hearing on barge controversy

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Area residents will have an opportunity at 6 p.m. Thursday to air their opinions for and against a barge fleet installation proposed immediately north of the local water supply intake.

Objectors include the Illinois-American Water Co., which says an unplanned barge sinking, spill or leak so close to its intake could jeopardize the quality and safety of drinking water in much of Madison and St. Clair counties.

The barge operator says no filled toxic barges would be located here and that other safety steps would be taken. The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency will conduct Thursday's public hearing at the Granite City township building, 206 Delmar Ave. All interested citizens may attend and participate.

Announcement of the hearing was made by Thomas G. McSwiggan, manager of the Permit Section of the IEPA's Division of Water Pollution Control. He has received many written "pro and con" viewpoints about the barge project.

About to be crowded out of some of its present barge floating space by the Alton lock and dam replacement project, National Marine Service, Inc. Hartford, seeks certification for the new site under Section 401 of the federal Clean Water Act.

The proposed barge floating facility would be constructed on about 3,300 feet of the left descending bank of the Mississippi River at Chouteau Island, between river miles 192.2 and 192.8 (above the mouth of the Ohio River).

There would be four steel pile dolphins and 16 concrete "deadmen" for mooring a fleet of up to 112 barges.

Operations would involve storage of empty barges, or loaded barges carrying materials other than liquids, salts, wastes and other similar materials. The site is not to be a cargo transfer facility.

McSwiggan says, "The purpose of the hearing is to enable all interested parties to provide information to the IEPA for its decision on the application."

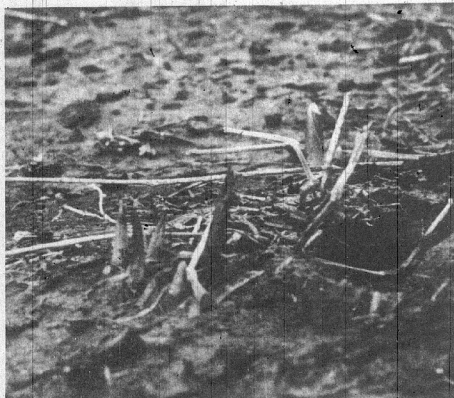

"Issues to be considered at the hearing include only those matters involving water quality as regulated under Chapter 3 of the Illinois Pollution Control Board rules."

"Only matters relative to the construction and operating impacts of the proposed floating facility—on the water quality of the Mississippi River and the public water supply of Illinois-American—will be considered Thursday."

"Those attending will be allowed to present oral and/or written testimony on these matters. A general question and answer session will follow and close the hearing."

Quadrant's plans to request a hearing were disclosed by the Press-

Cheese goes fast to 'needy, not greedy'

By GEORGEANN MEGEE
of the Press-Record

"It was over in a flash," said Ruben Williams, who coordinated Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission's role in the great federal cheese give-away last week.

"The longest it took was 55 minutes," Williams said, commenting on how long EOC workers needed to distribute cheese at neighborhood centers.

Apparently, quite a few residents found the cheese cupboards bare only a day after 12,000 pounds were trucked into the Quad-Cities area. After crates were emptied of 2,400 five-pound cheese blocks, the remaining needy were still seeking a wedge of the government surplus stockpile.

A bit upset in the wake of the project — intended to give surplus cheese to needy families — were those who lined up at EOC-designated sites, as well as the county EOC director.

Pleased with a smooth operation were local agencies working through the Catholic Charities' network, which had matched the amount of the cheese deliveries at public housing centers to the number of families living there.

"The cheese is now in the refrigerators of 1,400 families," said George Cook of United Way, recipient agency for Catholic Charities here. He said the give-away accomplished the "point of getting the cheese to the people."

However, there was not enough to go around, and confusing to some were two separate distribution systems. The share of the federal cheese here was filtered through both EOC — eventually receiving 3,600 pounds for the Quad-Cities — and Catholic Charities getting 8,400 for local distribution.

All Catholic Charities cheese was distributed to housing projects residents in Granite City, Madison and Venice, with a small portion left over for over-the-counter distribution to walk-in requests at the Venice Urban League office.

Tommie Blackwell from the Urban League said "the little bit left over" was gone within a few hours. Thursday afternoon and Friday morning, she said people expecting to receive cheese at EOC sites were coming to her office. "There were a lot of requests off the streets," she said.

State recommends multiplier of 1.1192

Madison County has been issued a tentative property assessment equalization factor of 1.1192, according to J. Thomas Johnson, director of the Illinois Department of Revenue. The county will now take steps to continue its traditional "one" multiplier.

The property assessment equalization factor, often called the multiplier, is the method used to achieve uniform property assessments among counties, as required by law. This equalization is considered particularly important because some of the state's 6,000 local taxing districts overlap into two or more counties, including school districts, college districts and fire protection districts. If there was no equalization among counties, substantial inequities among taxpayers with comparable properties would result, Johnson said.

Under a law passed in 1975, property in Illinois should be assessed at one-third of its market value. Farm property is assessed differently, with farm homesites and dwellings subject to regular assessing and equalization procedures, but with farmland and buildings assessed at one-third of their agricultural economic value (and not subject to state equalization).

The equalization factor is determined annually for each county by comparing the price of individual properties sold over the past three years to the assessed value placed on those properties by the county assessor.

If this three-year average level of assessment is one-third of market value, the equalization factor will be one.

If the average level of assessment is greater than one-third of market value, the equalization factor will be less than one. And if the average level of assessment is less than one-third of market value, the equalization factor will be greater than one. Assessments in Madison County are at 29.78 percent of market value, based on sales of properties in 1978, 1979 and 1980. The equalization factor currently being assigned is for 1981 taxes, payable in 1982.

Last year's final equalization factor for Madison County was 1.0.

The tentative factor is subject to change (1) if the county Board of Review takes action which significantly affect the county assessments or (2) if local officials or other present data (Continued on Page 4)

IP seeks another rate hike

Illinois Power Company Friday requested an increase in electrical and natural gas rates to become effective in 1983.

The request is the second step taken by the company to improve its future financial position. It was filed only after the company implemented an intensive cost-cutting program that reduced the need for revenue during the next two years by $50 million.

The need to maintain financial integrity, support the construction program and cover increasing costs of operations are the reasons for the requested rate increases.

The request filed by the company with the Illinois Commerce Commission is for a 19.9 percent increase in electric rates, to provide $14.1 million of additional annual revenue; and 9.7 percent in gas rates to provide $50.5 million annually.

The proposed electric rates would mean a monthly increase of $4.81 per (Continued on Page 4)

The reason, he explained, is simple. "Once the underground element feels there is no counteraction in drug traffic, then they feel free to roam higher and yon in drug trafficking. There is a problem in Granite City. People are aware that there is little drug enforcement in the area."

"Selling drugs is profitable and Granite City is easy to work — an easy mark — and you can be assured it will continue to grow until those of us in law enforcement can't do anything about it," Nichols warned.

MEGSI relies upon participating communities donating an officer plus an additional six percent of his salary to the program. The officers then work plain clothes assignments in MEGSI territories other than his own area, where he might be recognized as a policeman.

Working undercover, the MEGSI officers mix with drug users and pushers and make purchases of marijuana, "uppers and downers" and hard drugs, including heroin.

Lists of the sellers are kept and when a specific investigation is completed, MEGSI officers cooperate with local law enforcement agencies in conducting simultaneous arrests of the drug sellers. Several such "busts" have been made in Granite City in past years.

Nichols said that most drug arrests MEGSI makes in other communities are the results, he feels, of drug sales initiated in Granite City. MEGSI, however, is reluctant to assign undercover officers to Granite City, since Granite City withdrew its man from MEGSI last summer and has not contributed to the problem since financial difficulties forced the elimination of four police dispatchers and the layoff of one Granite City policeman.

It is not fair to take men (assigned to MEGSI by other cities) and go into an area not supporting us. I have real trouble donating manpower and dollars in an area like that when areas having contributed men or dollars are left

Self protection is meeting topic

Granite City Police Chief Ronald J. Veizer was the featured speaker at last week's meeting of the South High School Chapter of Future Secretaries Association.

As mice ran across the stage, and after the FSA members had screamed, Chief Veizer opened his talk on the topic of self-protection by assuring the audience that he knew they were capable of the first rule to remember when about to be attacked, and that is to scream.

Although the mice were not a planned part of the evening, they served a good purpose in getting the presentation off to an unusual beginning.

Chief Veizer, who has been on the Granite City Police Department force for 28 years in various positions, including patrolman, detective, sergeant, and his present job of chief of police, went into other details of how females should protect themselves when they are walking, driving, or at home.

A rapist could turn out to be a relative, neighbor, boyfriend, best friend, almost any acquaintance, and females should never get the mistaken notion that they are not potential victims. Many times the rape is planned, the rapist knows his victim's daily schedule, where she goes, and when she is home alone. He urged the girls not to hesitate to use their natural weapons of fingers, fingernails, feet, elbows, teeth, and he reminded them "don't be afraid to use them, and don't be afraid to hurt the person who is attempting to hurt you."

Other reminders included such points as, keeping the draperies closed, never answering the door when you are home alone until you know for sure who is outside, never tell anyone on the phone who claims to have a wrong number what your name or telephone number is, and most important of all memorizing the emergency number of the Police Department: 877-6111.

Chief Veizer stated there are five lines on that emergency number, and they are manned 24 hours a day. Any time anyone has an emergency of any kind, that is the only number they have to remember. The police department will follow up with the necessary action as soon as they receive a call on that number.

In speaking of possible rapists, he mentioned in general such cases as relatives who molest or attempt to rape a young female in the family, and warn her not to tell anyone. He again urged the audience to speak up if anything like that ever happened to them. They might be saving a good friend, a younger sister, or another relative from the same fate.

Obscene phone calls could be handled in several ways, among them were the following: hang up just as soon as someone starts talking obscenely, or breathe heavily into the phone. What the caller is looking for is someone who will listen, or who will talk back to them. They will continue to call the phone numbers where they receive a response, as that is what they are looking for. The other remedy is to have a whistle by the phone, such as a coach's whistle. When certain that it is an obscene phone caller (and not just a friend playing a prank), Chief Veizer instructed the girls to blow the whistle as loudly as possible into the phone. The result is usually a broken eardrum by the unwanted caller on the other end of the line.

Advice to the girls if they ever thought they were being followed when they were walking alone some night, was to let the man know you know he is following you by turning around. If he continues to follow, cross the street, and start screaming as loudly as possible, and run to a house for assistance.

If a man is following in a car while the girl is walking alone, the best thing to do would be to turn around and rapidly start going the opposite direction. The safest thing to do is to travel in pairs, because rarely do rapists travel in pairs.

He cautioned the audience that the first thing anyone should remember to do if they have been raped is to call the police or go immediately to the police station; don't change clothes, don't clean up. All the evidence is needed that might be carried on or about the individual who has been raped. The police will quickly take the victim to the hospital where a nurse or doctor will perform the routine examination and collect evidence. Anyone who has been raped should not be afraid or ashamed to talk about it, the worst thing that happens is the emotional trauma a victim suffers. That is why she must have someone to talk to.

In closing, Chief Veizer described a local organization known as the Crime Blockers. It's been in existence for seven or eight years, and has about 750 members. He expressed interest in getting the FSA members involved as members. Each member is given a code number, and uses that code when calling in to report any criminal action they have witnessed. They must first attend a training class of about an hour in length. Chief Veizer volunteered a tour of the police department, and a training class held there, if enough of the members expressed an interest. He stated that a real need in the organization is for those of high school age and young adults, to help make the organization even more successful than it has been to date. FSA Advisor Pat Rich said this would be further developed, and plans made to pursue this if possible.

President Carla Veizer, daughter of the guest speaker, presided at the meeting, and announced that the annual FSA Olympics would be held at GCIS-South on Thursday, March 18. The FSA advisor spoke at length about the field trip planned for all FSA members on April 14. The members will leave the high school by chartered bus at 8:10 and arrive at Center Bank (formerly First National Bank in St. Louis) by 9 a.m., where they will be given a tour of the new World Processing Center by Gail Flemming, supervisor.

Following the tour, the members will visit the Old

Courthouse prior to going to the Stadium Club for lunch. The early afternoon will be spent in an education trip through the Magic House, and the members would return to high school by 3:30 p.m.

The date for "Senior Day in the Office" will be April 28, and all FSA seniors will spend the day with secretaries in various offices at Center Bancorporation (formerly First Union Bancorporation). The FSA year will conclude with an awards banquet on Monday, May 3, at Charlie's Restaurant, at which time the FSA Award and Miss FSA Award will be presented to the junior and senior members who have earned the most points, the president noted.

The date for "Senior Day in the Office" will be April 28, and all FSA seniors will spend the day with secretaries in various offices

GUEST SPEAKER, Granite City Police Chief Ron Veizer, back row on left, with members of the South High School Chapter of Future Secretaries Association. He spoke on self protection for females, especially if confronted by a rapist, at the monthly meeting. Others in back row are, FSA President Carla Veizer and Diane Martin. Colleges help 503 to leave welfare rolls

A report by the Illinois Community College Board indicates state community colleges such as Belleville Area College provide help in removing students from public assistance rolls.

The report says 503 students were removed from Illinois public assistance rolls after enrolling in community college programs supported by fiscal year 1981 grants for disadvantaged students.

Since each public assistance grant per recipient and dependent averages $4,958 a year, this results in a saving of $2.5 million to Illinois taxpayers, it was found.

Other results of programs supported by disadvantaged students grants were: 1,577 unemployed participants obtained a job; 667 changed jobs or were upgraded to a better job; 23,940 completed an adult basic education program.

Another 4,588 completed a General Education Development program; and 1,795 enrolled in other education or training courses after completing adult basic education of GED programs.

The $5.1 million state-appropriated grant program, administered by the ICCB, provided services to 116,612 Illinois students in fiscal 1981 — 84,622 women and 31,990 men. Each community college received a basic grant of $20,000, with the remaining funds distributed proportionately to the districts, based on their previous year's enrollment in remedial, adult basic, education, GED and English as a second language courses.

Programs supported by disadvantaged student grants are designed to meet the special educational needs of minorities, economically disadvantaged persons, high school dropouts, displaced homemakers, low achievers in a degree program, unskilled and underskilled workers, the limited English-speaking, and an "ever-increasing number of adult part-time students who want to improve their career opportunities," a spokesman said.

The grant funds are limited by law to courses and services in programs for disadvantaged students.

GEN. STEEL MERGER PROCESS CONTINUING

General Steel Industries announced Thursday it has completed the purchase of 750,000 shares of General Steel common stock from Walco National Corp. for $14,250,000 in cash or $19 per share. Walco no longer owns any General Steel shares.

Walco had acquired the shares in its completed tender offer. The purchase by General Steel was made in connection with an agreement among General Steel, Walco and Lukens Steel Co. General Steel will become a subsidiary of Lukens after a March 18 merger vote.

Business, university and public interaction sought by Lazerson

President Earl Lazerson of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville believes many of society's problems can be resolved through a "creative partnership" between higher education and the world of business and industry.

Addressing a seminar last week on the SIUE campus sponsored by the St. Louis chapter of the Young Presidents' Organization, Lazerson said services of the university are being expanded "to serve the increased needs of society."

But the president said there is potential for "higher returns for everyone's benefit" through even greater cooperation between the "private and public sectors."

He pointed to the expenditure of more than $3 billion annually by business and industry on education research and training, a figure that nearly equals annual expenditures by all of the nation's publicly financed colleges and universities.

Pres. Lazerson said his thinking concurs with a recently published commentary by John Hanley, chairman and chief executive officer of Monsanto Co. praising colleges and universities which are undertaking innovative programs for the benefit of society, Hanley called for a redefinition of "our mission to society."

Lazerson quoted Hanley as saying, "I believe this redefinition will lead to a new level of confidence in ourselves — and public confidence in what we're doing. We will reaffirm the ability of our educational system to train our young people, and the ability of business and industry to provide jobs and economic growth."

By redefining the ways business and universities support each other, we can build on our strengths and multiply our achievements manifold."

The SIUE president said Hanley specifically cited the SIUE Master of Business Administration program being offered in St. Louis County as an example of an institution expanding its services to meet the needs of society.

"What it is doing is carrying the institution beyond the walls of the traditional college classroom — taking its product out to the market," Hanley commented.

Lazerson listed other SIUE programs that have been conceived in direct response to regional needs and demands.

They include baccalaureate degrees in engineering, gerontology, construction and computer science; the master's degree in nursing; the degree of doctor of education in the instructional process; and the doctor of dental medicine degree.

"In the area of research, major fields of examination by SIUE faculty and staff specialists include the sciences, engineering, environmental technology, business and industrial productivity, and marketing methods and strategies."

Also, educational delivery systems, developmental education, archaeological exploration, alternative energy sources, historical, regional and cultural studies and a host of others," Lazerson said.

"A prime thrust of these efforts is toward applicable research. This emphasis is consistent with the regional mission of the university."

The president cited other SIUE efforts in the area of public service, including "centers in speech, hearing and reading that build the literacy, communication and learning skills of the citizens."

of the region; continuing education programs at the work site in area industries and businesses; and regional economic development and urban planning conducted through our Office of Area Development and the Center for Urban and Environmental Research and Services."

Lazerson reminded the young corporate leaders that the university's aggregate direct expenditures in the St. Louis Metropolitan area were nearly $60 million in fiscal year 1981.

The total economic impact of SIUE on the region was over $190 million last year. "From your standpoint, you can understand that in a quarter-century of active operations, this relatively young institution has become a business of significant size," Lazerson said.

Called a "day of learning," the seminar for the Young Presidents' Organization featured discussions led by 11 members of the SIUE faculty in a variety of disciplines and tours of the campus in a day-long series of events.

The group also heard from Dr. Kenneth E. Shaw, chancellor of the SIU system. Entertainment by SIUE presidential scholars and a dinner in the University Center.

Council seeks township help

The Granite City Council will hold a special meeting with Granite City Township Supervisor Nelson Hagnauer to seek financial help with the winter road conditions.

Fifth Ward Alderman Jake Varadian called for the discussion at the Tuesday township meeting. He said he made the request because of the large snowfall.

"I thought one of the functions of the township is to help maintain roads," he told aldermen. Varadian said it seemed that Granite City and its street department had always been totally responsible for the roads without assistance from the township, unlike other townships in the area which contribute to road maintenance.

"Maybe Mr. Hagnauer can help us in some way," said Varadian. A motion was approved by the aldermen for City Clerk Robert W. Stevens to contact the township supervisor and arrange a meeting at his convenience.

City Attorney John Papa said the state generally encourages cooperation between governing agencies in mutual issues.

Dependents at tax time

Almost every year around tax time, stories make the rounds about people who claim dogs, cats or long-deceased relatives as dependents — people trying to beat the Internal Revenue Service out of some money.

Most of the bogus claims are caught eventually, but the question is still open — who or what qualifies as a dependent in the eyes of the IRS?

In general, the guidelines are fairly straightforward, says tax expert Bart Basi, but the unwary can still get tangled, trying honestly to claim the $1,000 tax exemption allowed for each dependent under 1981 income tax filing requirements.

A potential dependent must pass several tests before the IRS will buy a claimed exemption. Essentially, the tests are: Support. The taxpayer claiming the exemption must furnish at least half of all the financial support the dependent got during 1981. It's possible to qualify for this exemption even if more than one person contributes to a dependent's support.

For instance, if several children contribute toward supporting a parent, they can agree to let one of them claim the entire amount of support during the year in question.

Relationship. The dependent must be related by blood or marriage. This includes children, stepchildren or grandchildren; brothers or sisters; half-brothers or half-sisters; stepbrothers or stepsisters; parents; grandparents; great-grandparents; nieces and nephews; aunts and uncles; sons-in-law, daughters-in-law, fathers-in-law, mothers-in-law, brothers-in-law or sisters-in-law.

None of these relationships created by marriage ends with divorce or death of a spouse.

Income. Generally, someone claimed as a dependent cannot earn more than $1,000 during a tax year, but there are exceptions. A child younger than 19 years old and a full-time student can earn more than the $1,000 limit without endangering status as a dependent. Scholarships usually don't count toward total income.

Citizenship or residency. A dependent must be a U.S. citizen or a resident of the United States, Canada or Mexico at some time during the tax year.

Is it worth the trouble to claim someone as a dependent? Basi thinks it is. A married taxpayer with $45,000 in taxable income in 1981 would save about $2,000 in taxes by claiming four qualified dependents.

presiding officer at the hearing. Parney said Kunc personally delivered the subpoena to him, assuring him that he is not suspect of wrongdoing.

Madison County Sheriff Emil Tofani said he believes his office is delivering some of the subpoenas, but he declined to say to whom, saying Kunc would have to release that information.

According to the canons of ethics for lawyers, it is forbidden to make untrue statements about judges. The committee is believed to be studying the newspaper and radio advertisements to determine if false statements were made with the knowledge of any attorneys.

The testimony of Manning, 34, potentially could play a major role in reaching that determination, since he was the key employee of the anti-judge campaign committee.

He told the Press-Record last week that he was merely the transmitter of misleading information, not the one who originated it. He said his past public statements on the judicial campaign were made before or after himself.

Chapman denies any impropriety on his part. In his recollections of the committee's advertisements, the attorney sees them as possibly incomplete in some instances, but not inaccurate. Whether he read them before or after their publication has not been disclosed.

He is expected to deny any role in the preparation of campaign statements that might be construed in retrospect as having been untrue.

Goals of the state commission will be to pinpoint the sources of various informational points that were disseminated to voters, and to evaluate whether the published assertions were substantially correct or incorrect.

Committee participants are said to have included more than one member per firm of several law firms in this region, and a number of persons who are not attorneys.

Non-lawyers have greater leeway than lawyers to comment during judicial election campaigns on the qualifications of judges, although lawyers sometimes have a much closer view of the judges.

The primary avenue left open to attorneys in such campaigns, other than contributing or not contributing to campaign treasuries, is to participate in Bar Association polls on court candidates' fitness.

The Bar then announces whether or not lawyers as a group recommend or disapprove of each candidate.

Cheese goes

proved to be difficult, Williams said, since public demand was so much higher than the supply. EOC cheese was depleted in less than an hour. The director said he was unhappy that his agency was receiving complaint calls which he viewed as unfair.

Since Catholic Charities decided to distribute exclusively in the housing projects, Williams said, EOC was "left holding the bag" for the rest of the community's needs.

With EOC's county cheese total only 12,000 pounds, Granite City received only 1,110 pounds. The city's portion was gone in about 45 minutes. Some who were turned away empty-handed from the waiting line estimated that the cheese-give away at Old Logan School lasted less than 20 minutes.

Exactly 222 blocks of five-pound cheese were given out in Granite City though EOC, according to Williams. He said he verified that number through forms recipients filled out. His agency is now compiling statistics on income, employment and family size of those given cheese.

Among the preliminary findings, Williams said, 90 percent of those receiving cheese at the EOC Cottage Hills site were from the ranks of the unemployed. "So we thought we did a very good job."

Nobody knew how great the need would be, he added.

The Danbar Community Center distributed 498 pounds of cheese. Williams said that site remained open longer than the one in Granite City, but some of the time was needed to fill out the forms after the cheese was gone.

"With any system set up, there is going to be inequities," said Cook, who contends the cheese "went to the needy not the greedy."

Housing projects receiving the cheese in proportion to the number of residents were Kirkpatrick and Anchorage Homes, sharing 912 blocks of cheese; Lee Wright Homes, 670 pounds; Garesche Homes, 700 pounds; Grenzer Homes, 635 pounds, and Viola Jones Homes, 290 pounds.

Those seniors who went to the Granite City Township Hall last Thursday to participate in the senior meals nutrition program receive a bonus. They were given a total of 106 pounds to take home.

Agencies now are waiting for a new shipment of cheese and plans for distributing it are to be announced in the near future.

unprotected," he explained.

Nichols warned that allowing drug traffic to continue unchecked will lead to increased crime. "You will see an increase in homicides, home burglaries and violent crimes. There will be arguments over 'turfs' and junkies will need money to be supplied. Drug users are just going to cause more problems," he continued.

Nichols said he is actively encouraging Granite City to help support the MEGSI program in the coming fiscal year, either through financial contributions or by assigning a man to the unit.

Among the members of the Crime Prevention Committee is Granite City Councilman Ronald J. Veizer, who said he intends to ask the Granite City Council March 2 to support MEGSI, either through a cash contribution or by adding six percent of one officer's salary to the upcoming year's budget of the police department, so that a man can be assigned to MEGSI.

The members of the Crime Prevention Committee agreed to support efforts to encourage the council to support MEGSI.

Alderman Warren Decatur, a member of the Chamber committee, warned that, even if an appropriation for MEGSI is approved by the council, it will not be available until at least May 1, the first day of the 1982-83 fiscal year.

He said he and Alderman Everett Morley, also a member of the Chamber's Crime Prevention Committee, have tried in the past to return the police department to full strength, "but we're only two votes (out of 14)," Decatur noted.

said, "By cutting costs and deferring or postponing expenditures whenever possible, we have delayed this filing with the hope that the increase will be more effective when economic conditions are improved. This increase will not effect customers until 1983.

TREASURER'S RACEDailey sees old versus new

By RAY SERRATI

SPRINGFIELD — To John Dailey, the race for the Republican nomination for state treasurer is a matter of the old versus the new.

Dailey, a Peoria attorney and businessman and close associate of Gov. James R. Thompson, recently turned 40, and naturally identifies himself as the "new" candidate. His opponent, former House Speaker Robert Blair, 51, of Crete naturally is given the "old" designation.

"Bob's a swell fellow," Dailey said in an interview. "I just think it's a different era. He's only 10 or 12 years older than I am, but it's a different generation."

I think the issue that people have is the chance to vote for someone who's going to be around in years to come — not a thank you for past favors. Bob runs his campaign based on past favors."

The treasurer's race, which up to now has been overshadowed by the three-way fight for lieutenant governor, could develop into a knock-down-drag-out affair by election day March 16. Dailey is left with the political needle and Blair proved during his days as speaker that he could play rough on occasion.

One of the interesting aspects of the Dailey-Blair fight is the role or non-role being played by the governor himself. Blair and Thompson have had their differences, and four years ago Thompson strongly backed John Castle who narrowly defeated Blair for the nomination of lieutenant governor.

Thompson has adopted a neutral stance in the treasurer's race and Blair contends this strongly boosts his chances of winning.

Dailey disputes this and contends that Thompson's staying out of the race may well enhance Dailey's own chances of winning. Dailey was a major fund-raiser for Thompson in past campaigns but denies any dis-appointment that the governor has not publicly endorsed him as he has House Speaker George Ryan, the Lieutenant governor's race.

Dailey says Thompson first asked him about reports he would run for treasurer at a political rally at Peoria the day before the 1980 election. With all big name Republicans present including Ronald Reagan, George Bush and former President Gerald Ford.

"I said yeah," Dailey recalls. "And I said I do have any problems? And he said 'absolutely not, I think it's great.'"

The matter next surfaced last February: "I had a public hearing on the tentative multiplier will be held in the late winter. A change in the equalization factor does not mean total property tax bills will increase or decrease, Johnson asserted.

Tax bills are determined by local taxing bodies when they request money each year to provide services to local citizens. If the amount requested by the taxing districts is no greater than the amount received in the previous year, then total property taxes will not increase even if assessments may have increased, it was explained. The assessed value of an individual property determines what portion of the tax revenue is allocated to local taxing districts. That portion of tax responsibility is not changed by the multiplier.

Dailey said he was not sure if the multiplier would be used in the late winter. A change in the equalization factor does not mean total property tax bills will increase or decrease, Johnson asserted.

1 years in prison after fatal crash

Daniel Caughron was sentenced Friday by Circuit Judge A. A. Matosian to serve 11 years in an Illinois state prison on charges resulting from a fatal auto crash here in October.

The chief criminal judge utilized a state law allowing the doubling of a maximum sentence.

He doubled the three-year maximum for reckless homicide, and ordered that those six years be served after a five-year sentence that he imposed because the collision occurred while Caughron was on probation from a 1981 aggravated battery conviction.

Judge Matosian had placed him on two years' probation last year for attacking a Granite City policeman who stopped him on a traffic violation.

Two felony counts of reckless homicide were added to the list of charges filed against Caughron, 23, of 2405 Iowa St., in connection with two accidents occurring on a Sunday morning, one of which claimed the life of Gregory A. Ballew, 20, of 74 Maureen Court.

It was alleged that an auto driven north on Nameeki Road by Caughron first struck the rear of the auto of Michael Whaley, 23, of 2504 Grand Ave., which was stopped for a red light at Johnson Road.

Caughron's auto then left the scene, went through the red light and struck the rear of a 1978 Buick Wildcat driven by Ballew was driving across Nameeki Road westbound.

The auto driven by Caughron slammed into the driver's door of the west-bound car, rupturing the driver's spleen, liver and a main artery. Mr. Ballew died about two hours later during emergency surgery at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Other persons were injured in the two collisions, including three who were admitted to the medical center.

Caughron, who consented to a breath test for alcohol, was charged with driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident, driving while his license was suspended and two counts of passing traffic lights.

The charges were contained in a seven-count criminal information document issued by the Madison County state's attorney's office.

He was taken before Associate Judge Clayton Williams in the City Hall of Granite City Hall on reckless homicide and a charge of violating his probation. He pleaded innocent to both and Judge Williams continued a $100,000 bond on the criminal information while adding a $50,000 bond on the probation charge for a total of $150,000.

Assistant State's Attorney James J. Scroggins urged the year term, asserting in court that Caughron had "earned it and deserves it." Defense attorney Leon Scroggins asked that the sentence be five years.

The two lawyers had stipulated that the extended term law could be applied because of the motorist's record, but the agreement did not apply if the defendant got into any trouble before sentencing.

Jensen said Caughron was arrested on suspicion of driving a pistol while on probation. He was taken to the Madison Tavern less than a week after pleading guilty to the other charges, leaving the prosecutor free to take consecutive rather than concurrent terms. The gun charge is still pending.

Caughron also was placed on probation in 1980 for property damage after allegedly crashing his car against the auto of a man who had quarreled. His driver's license is listed as having been suspended three times during the last three years.

Cancer Society organized

A permanent group has been organized to serve the Quad-City area for the American Cancer Society. The goals are education, research and service.

An organizational group met last week, with the meeting chaired by Lloyd Dailey, ACS area field representative.

Attending were Joseph Lucido, unit chairman; Charles Polman, income development chairman; J. L. Holland, Quad-City chairman; J. G. Holland, Granite City chairman; Linda Schermer, chairman from the Pontoon Beach Lions Club area; Joan Mulligan, chairman from the Madison Service Club area; with Mrs. C. Voloski, assistant; and Granite City captains Evelyn McColegan, Carol Franklin, Barbara Monroe, Carl J. Werth and Marilyn Byrd.

APARTMENT BREAK-IN — Bob Mayor, manager of apartments at 2135 Benton St., reported a vacant apartment was entered by forcing open a rear door at 6:35 p.m. Sunday. A wall clock, mirror and curtains were stolen. The property is owned by Bruce Crittenden, he said.

It is being contended that weather and other mishaps could create unforeseen problems, and that any

Alleges man is Florida fugitive

Duncan W. Bostick, 41, of 3506 Kirkpatrick Homes, arrested in the 3400 block of the housing complex at 3:36 a.m. Thursday, was being held last week on a warrant alleging robbery for authorities in Duval County, South Jacksonville, Fla.

Bostick, also allegedly known as Jerry J. Moore, was charged here with disorderly conduct after an alleged disturbance involving his wife, Birdie K. Bostick, 27, of the Kirkpatrick Homes address.

Mrs. Bostick contacted police at 2:10 a.m. Thursday and alleged her husband had threatened to kill her. Officers said the Bostick apartment was in disarray and several pieces of furniture had been broken.

After receiving a second call at 3:35 a.m., police returned to the apartment and Mrs. Bostick then alleged her husband was wanted by authorities in Florida.

An officer approached a man in the 3400 block of Kirkpatrick Homes, who matched Bostick's description, and was holding him at gunpoint until other officers could arrive when Mrs. Bostick came running toward the officer and he was forced to holster his weapon and hold her on the ground, reports stated. She was charged with obstructing a police officer.

Bostick had a butcher knife concealed beneath his jacket when taken into custody, police said. He was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment of a cut hand at 6:10 a.m. Thursday and was transferred to Madison County Jail at Edwardsville at 12:55 p.m. that day.

Mrs. Bostick was released on payment of $100 cash bond at 10:15 a.m. Thursday.

Arrest man at medical center

Kenneth R. Lewis, 41, of Rural Route One, Box 18, Highway 162, pleaded innocent to a state charge of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest in an appearance last week in the Granite City Circuit Court. He was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest in an appearance last week in the Granite City Circuit Court. He was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest in an appearance last week in the Granite City Circuit Court.

Lewis was arrested at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Springfield, where he allegedly was using loud and profane language while complaining about treatment received by his son to employees in the sister Mary Thomas' office.

SEMC security officers allegedly were threatened during the incident and Lewis reportedly attempted to strike a police officer while being taken into custody.

Lewis was transferred to Madison County Jail in Edwardsville at 7:45 a.m. Thursday.

File cannabis, conduct charges

William T. Wallace, 18, of 2235 Ohio Ave., was charged with unlawful possession of cannabis and disorderly conduct after being apprehended early Thursday morning outside the home of Vera Harmon, 10 Briarcliff Drive.

Mrs. Harmon's son, Randy, told officers he was looking out the residence front window and saw two men near the family car. One man was inside and the second was standing by the door.

Randy and his brother, Tom, ran outside and caught one man, but the second person fled north on Briarcliff and escaped.

Wallace was held by the Harmons until police officers arrived. He pleaded guilty to both charges in a court appearance at 1:20 p.m. Thursday and was given until April 2 to pay a $138 fine.

RELEASED ON BOND

Rudolph R. Corbett, 33, of 1105 Kirkpatrick Homes, was released at 4:30 a.m. Saturday after posting $100 cash bond on a charge of disorderly conduct. He allegedly was trying to enter an apartment of a former girlfriend in Kirkpatrick Homes, was ordered by police to leave, left and returned. Police then arrested him. Several residents allegedly complain of Corbett yelling and cursing.

Madison School Board responds to Garrett

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

The Madison Board of Education took a 20-minute recess Thursday evening as Board Member Don Garrett repeatedly interrupted a statement Board President Sam Dymas was trying to read to the board concerning a "Letter to the Editor" published in the Granite City Press-Record last week, which was written by Garrett.

The letter concerned Garrett's yelling and being ruled out of order at the last Madison Board of Education meeting when he accused the school administration of being incompetent and not keeping proper minutes of meetings along with questions regarding the condition of the new Middle School's roof.

After the recess, President Dymas continued with his prepared statement to the board and Garrett and the president then gave everyone in the room a copy, along with several statements in writing from Henry Gabriel, the school architect, Eldon Rhodes, maintenance superintendent, the Illinois Capitol Development Board, Biebel Brothers Roofing Co., and copies of numerous newspaper articles in regard to the new Middle School roofing problems.

Garrett refused a copy of the statement when offered to him by Dymas. After the meeting, Garrett was asked if he cared to comment on the Dymas statement. Garrett responded, "Everything I say (in the Forum letter) stands. My statements were made in a public meeting (the previous board meeting) and should be reflected in the board minutes."

Dymas noted after the meeting, "I think if Mr. Garrett would attend the meetings and be on time, in a regular manner, he would be more aware of what is going on. We have numerous discussions on all phases of the school program and meetings which are open to the public." Dymas said, "Garrett was late to the meeting."

The Dymas statement to the board is as follows:

"In a recent letter to the editor in the Granite City Press-Record, I read what was once again a comedy of errors. True, to have a spirited board meeting is good, but to write a Letter to the Editor every time one gets a little upset or doesn't get his way (meaning Don Garrett) is obnoxious and immature, especially when almost the whole letter is a fallacy, once again. Everyone has a right to say what he or she believes, but to start a yelling match does not justify any statements or decisions. A good discussion can bring desired results," Dymas said.

Mr. Garrett stated in his recent letter that Superintendent John Palechiff has made some bad decisions. On Feb. 3, but so did nine other districts in Madison County. Only five districts did not have a closed school day. a.m. at Dunbar and 10:30 a.m. at the junior high. There were bids on both schools.

"On July 30, 1979, the Board met and discussed the sale of Dunbar and the junior high. There was no decision made at that time. On Aug. 2, 1979, there was a motion made to table the selling of Dunbar until the board met on Aug. 13 and 14, 1979. Garrett was the only 'nay' vote. On Aug. 2, 1979, on a motion made by Paul Bargiel and seconded by Elvers Johnson to reject the sale of the junior high, Garrett voted 'aye.' The motion carried.

"As you can see, this does not mean that the statement made by Garrett in his open letter to the Editor on Feb. 11, 1982, that we are going to hide the fact that eventually we will have to put out a bid for a new roof."

"The $120,000 roof which was discussed was a Carlyle Roof, it went to the old conventional roof, it would be considerably less money. I called and talked to Henry Gabriel, the district architect, and he assured me that the cost of a conventional roof would be between $50,000 and $60,000."

"Garrett also stated that the roof had been in place for 20 to 30 years. In a recent conversation with Gabriel, I questioned him about the existing roof on the Middle School. He answered me with a written reply."

"I also talked to Eldon Rhodes, the district maintenance supervisor. He stated that Garrett misquoted his statements concerning the roof of the Middle School. Rhodes stated, that, in his opinion, it was because of ice in the building at that time and the roof was being replaced. The ice caused the moisture to seep and into the insulation of the roof."

"Rhodes informed the construction observer hired by M&W Architects and Engineers on the job that he did not approve of the roof being replaced. He applied Rhoads then informed Palechiff, who in turn called the architect to complain to him about the application of the roof."

"I have copies of statements and letters concerning the faulty roofing at the Middle School. Garrett stated that Superintendent Palechiff hastened the opening of the new Middle School and declared Dunbar and the Junior High buildings to be vacated and 'up for sale.' He recalled saying, 'He's got a gun,' and then grabbed the barrel, at which time the assassin, 'bad' Charlie' Byrd, 'felt pain in his right leg, and then the alleged assassin fled north in the wheel, according to Thompson's statement to police."

"Byrd suffered a wound to the fingers of his left hand. He said the incident took place behind the Clark service station at 20th Street and Madison Avenue and the assassin had long blond hair. Thompson said the assassin had short dark hair."

"The two walked to the emergency room. No one at the Clark station nor Ken's Lounge knew anything about the two men or heard a shot."

"Byrd, according to police, said the gun was a blue steel, 32-caliber pistol with a four-inch barrel. Thompson said he did not see the gun."

made at that time. On Aug. 2, 1979, there was a motion made to table the selling of Dunbar until the board met on Aug. 13 and 14, 1979. Garrett was the only 'nay' vote. On Aug. 2, 1979, on a motion made by Paul Bargiel and seconded by Elvers Johnson to reject the sale of the junior high, Garrett voted 'aye.' The motion carried.

"As you can see, this does not mean that the statement made by Garrett in his open letter to the Editor on Feb. 11, 1982, that we are going to hide the fact that eventually we will have to put out a bid for a new roof."

"The $120,000 roof which was discussed was a Carlyle Roof, it went to the old conventional roof, it would be considerably less money. I called and talked to Henry Gabriel, the district architect, and he assured me that the cost of a conventional roof would be between $50,000 and $60,000."

"Garrett also stated that the roof had been in place for 20 to 30 years. In a recent conversation with Gabriel, I questioned him about the existing roof on the Middle School. He answered me with a written reply."

"I also talked to Eldon Rhodes, the district maintenance supervisor. He stated that Garrett misquoted his statements concerning the roof of the Middle School. Rhodes stated, that, in his opinion, it was because of ice in the building at that time and the roof was being replaced. The ice caused the moisture to seep and into the insulation of the roof."

"Rhodes informed the construction observer hired by M&W Architects and Engineers on the job that he did not approve of the roof being replaced. He applied Rhoads then informed Palechiff, who in turn called the architect to complain to him about the application of the roof."

"I have copies of statements and letters concerning the faulty roofing at the Middle School. Garrett stated that Superintendent Palechiff hastened the opening of the new Middle School and declared Dunbar and the Junior High buildings to be vacated and 'up for sale.' He recalled saying, 'He's got a gun,' and then grabbed the barrel, at which time the assassin, 'bad' Charlie' Byrd, 'felt pain in his right leg, and then the alleged assassin fled north in the wheel, according to Thompson's statement to police."

"Byrd suffered a wound to the fingers of his left hand. He said the incident took place behind the Clark service station at 20th Street and Madison Avenue and the assassin had long blond hair. Thompson said the assassin had short dark hair."

"The two walked to the emergency room. No one at the Clark station nor Ken's Lounge knew anything about the two men or heard a shot."

"Byrd, according to police, said the gun was a blue steel, 32-caliber pistol with a four-inch barrel. Thompson said he did not see the gun."

Painter fundraiser tonight

A cocktail party from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. tonight will be held for Fred Painter, candidate for Madison County treasurer.

Painter, a Granite City resident, will be seeking the Democratic nomination for county treasurer on March 16.

The $20-a-person fund raising party is being given by the Committee to Elect Fred Painter County treasurer. Charles Hessler is chairman of the committee, along with Stephen Saltich, campaign manager, and Don Parente, campaign treasurer.

Location of the event will be Charlie's Restaurant, 3120 Nameoki Road, and the evening will include an open bar, hot and cold hors d'oeuvres and cocktail music by Russ Bono.

Tickets to be sold in advance. Tickets will be available at the door.

Honoring Columbus

Grand Knight Frank Kierski and members of Tri-Cities Council 1088 of the Knights of Columbus will honor Columbus on the centennial of the occasion when he was chosen patron of the world's largest Catholic fraternal society.

It was at a meeting during Feb. of 1492 that Father Michael J. McGivney, assistant pastor of St. Math's Church, New Haven, Conn., and a group of Catholic laymen decided to name the society after the discoverer of the North American continent by Columbus and for the many blessings this has brought to countless immigrants who settled on the continent.

Centennial Chairman, Dr. John R. Vasiloff noted that the story of Columbus has a great relevance for our times.

He related that the discoverer lived in an era of discouragement and cynicism. European people then felt constrained and hemmed in, because Moslem conquest of the Middle East had cut off their trade with the entire Asian continent.

Columbus opened a new era of hope, optimism and activity, which infused a new vitality into the entire European continent.

"Those same qualities of vision, courage and perseverance can help overcome the dilution and malaise characteristic of much of society today and open new frontiers which will generate optimism, vitality and accomplishment," Dr. Vasiloff said.

Special pre-Easter services and events at Nameoki Presbyterian

A weekly "Sacrificial Soup Supper" will begin at 6:15 p.m. Wednesday at Nameoki Presbyterian Church, 1700 Pontoon Road.

A Wednesday program will include the showing of a motion picture, "In Remembrance of Me," and the events and persons involved in the Last Supper will be highlighted in special Wednesday night programs, until Easter.

To underscore the need for helping hungry people in the world, members of the church will be seeking in the shape of loaves of bread for their tables. The monies collected will then be used for food to help less fortunate people.

A new member seminar will be held by the Rev. Don Pierson, beginning Tuesday at 7 p.m. Church worship services will be at 10:45 a.m. on Sundays and Sunday School classes and the adult

One of the biggest points of debate between the Thompson and Stevenson camps is whether Illinois is doing as well as it should in comparison with similar states in the time of economic adversity. The latest statistics from the U.S. Labor Department suggest that Illinois may be holding its own but may be lagging behind in December Illinois' position went from fourth to fifth worst in unemployment and from 10th to 12th largest states. These included two Midwestern states with which the Thompson people like to make comparisons.

Venice man, 34, pleads innocent

Donald L. Mangiaracino, 34, of 1252 Oriole St., Venice, pleaded innocent to aggravated assault in a court appearance last week. He was taken into custody by Venice officers for a warrant, issued after a Jan. 26 incident in which Mangiaracino allegedly held a knife to the throat of Raymond Long, 216 Kerr St., Venice, for a period of six minutes at Tony's Restaurant, 15th Street and Madison Avenue.

The episode resulted from a property transaction, which actually had been cancelled, authorities were told. The January ambulance service report lists 285 runs and billings totaling $22,235. The ambulances served residents of Chouteau, Nameoki and Venice townships and Pontiac Beach, as well as Granite City Township.

HELD ON TWO CHARGES

Gary D. Lemons, 25, St. Louis, was being held during the weekend in the Granite City Jail pending the posting of a $200 cash bond on charges of aggravated assault and battery. He allegedly tried to start a fight with a customer in the parking lot of Curt's Grill at 1504 a.m. Sunday. According to witnesses, he allegedly threatened a customer with a knife. Lemons also apparently did not pay for two hamburgers and coffee. It was alleged. Police said they found a folding knife under the seat of Lemons' auto. Patrons and employees of the restaurant told police about the knife that Lemons allegedly tried to hide.

SNOWBLOWER GONE

A snowblower, valued at $350, was stolen from the rear entrance foyer at Buck and Jan's Den, 25th and State streets, it was reported last week.

Thompson, Stevenson duel with statistics

By KEN WATSON

SPRINGFIELD — That already red-hot Illinois governor's race could in the end be decided as much by statistics as by speeches.

Republican incumbent James Thompson and Democratic challenger Adlai Stevenson have been throwing the economic figures around like dice in a crap game. Both are gambling politically on the roll. Rapidly shaping up as the dominant issue of the campaign is the state of Illinois' economic health. Has it been sliding downhill faster than Big Jim on the Giant Slide at the State Fair as Adlai charges? Or has it been holding its own better than that of other Midwestern states in a time of recession and laying the groundwork for a new surge in prosperity as Thompson contends?

How the voters decide may well determine the next governor of Illinois. Meanwhile, the two candidates are grabbing at every economic statistics report that comes off the printing press to strengthen their case. With the economic forecasting and interpretation business as big as it is today, there is plenty of ammunition.

Thompson jumped on a report by his own State Department's Commerce and Community Affairs, an official with the National Council on Crime and Delinquency told a legislative panel earlier this month.

James Austin said research conducted by his non-profit crime study group shows that legislators who continue to push for longer sentences as a move to "get tough on crime" are increasing crime rate — cause the overcrowding. Before Illinois decides to build new prisons it should determine the cost of current and proposed legislation dealing with the length of prison sentences to see if the state can afford to pursue a policy of promoting longer sentences, he said. If the state cannot afford to house the prisoners or if the prisons are overcrowded, Austin told a House Appropriations subcommittee, sentences should be "adjusted."

In his home state of California, he said, "We got tough on crime; we're now going bankrupt." However, James Zagel, director of the State Department of Law Enforcement, said: "No one in the state is questioning whether we have to build new prisons. We have to build them. The questions are how many and how quickly."

He said the state has taken the cost of increased sentence lengths into account. Generally, he said, most law enforcement officials believe persons convicted of most crimes, except perhaps for misdemeanors, should serve some time in prison, although not necessarily a long time.

One of the plans the state has come up with to ease overcrowding is to eliminate the cost of increased sentence lengths into account. Generally, he said, most law enforcement officials believe persons convicted of most crimes, except perhaps for misdemeanors, should serve some time in prison, although not necessarily a long time.

OUTSTANDING SOLDIER AWARD Specialist Fifth Class Cecil D. Mitchell, son of Cecil Mitchell, 2049 Thirtieth St., and Nellie M. White of Collinsville, has been named outstanding soldier of the year at William Beaumont Army Medical Center, El Paso, Tex.

The soldier was picked from a select group of peers who were judged on military bearing and knowledge, professional conduct, exemplary behavior. Mitchell, a veterinary specialist, is a 1978 graduate of Granite City High School.

His wife, Cathy, is the daughter of Joe and Pat Hartman, 2016 Thirtieth St.

merce and Business Administration at the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana. It tended to support some of the Stevenson claims.

The "Illinois Economic Outlook 1982" in its State of the State section found that Illinois is lagging in economic growth not only in relation to the Sun Belt, states but also in relation to its Midwestern neighbors.

It stated in part: Like other states in the North and Northeast, the economy of Illinois declined relatively by four remaining Great Lakes states — Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin.

It also shows that it ranked very low in growth during the 1970s. (Thompson became governor in 1977.)

Much of this decline reflects continuation of the mushrooming growth in the Sun Belt. People have been moving from the rugged climate of the North to the sunnier climate of the South. The process began after World War II and continued through the 1970s. More troublesome is Illinois' poor showing in recent years relative to other Great Lakes states. Illinois' personal income grew 9.9 percent between 1975 and 1980, compared with a 10.7 percent growth rate registered by four remaining Great Lakes states — Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Other options to building prisons include setting up state-funded or state-operated probation system or establishing more work release centers.

3-way primary race here for Congress in new 21st District

By BILL WINTER

and GEORGEANN MCGEE Veteran Democratic legislative Cong. Melvin Price, who has held the office for 38 years, will see newcomers Floyd Fessler
Jr. and Sandra Climaco in the March 16 primary election.

Both challengers—identifying themselves as grassroots candidates—briefly outlined Congressional action they would support at a pre-election forum sponsored by the Granite City Democratic Club.

Mrs. Climaco of Belleville, a member of the National Democratic Committee, said she believes it is "time for a change" in Congressional representation in the new 21st District, which replaced the 22nd District here. Both she and Fessler of Alton emphasized their role as "non-politicians."

Mrs. Climaco told the audience that this country needs more women in Congress, but that she opposes the Equal Rights Amendment as presently worded.

"I don't think the ERA will help you," she commented to the women in the audience. According to Mrs. Climaco, if the Equal Rights Amendment had merit, voters and legislators would have recognized this and passed the amendment.

Fessler said he also opposes the amendment. "As far as I'm concerned, it failed," the candidate remarked in response to a question from the audience, adding, "If the ratification deadline) shouldn't have been extended." The delayed deadline for ratification will be reached this year.

Fessler, however, softened his opposition by stating that if the district wants the amendment, he would conform to the public's wishes.

If elected, Mrs. Climaco promised she will take an active role in the district by returning to this area whenever Congress recesses for more than two weeks. She also promised to maintain a low absenteeism rate in the recorded voting in Congress.

If elected as a member of Congress, she said, she will use her position to protect the family unit, to work to solve drug abuse problems, to try to lower interest rates, and to work for an improved educational system with strong emphasis on science.

She wants to upgrade and "equalize" education for all types of schools so there would be no need for segregation busing of students.

Legislative activity would be directed to restoring job opportunities, and she would work for improved job training techniques.

She also would seek "a national climate receptive to increased industrial productivity" and would try to aid industry in achieving greater success in meeting worldwide competition.

Although opposing Price, chairman of the U.S. House Armed Services Committee, Mrs. Climaco said one of her goals as a congressman would be building a strong defense, including strengthening the manpower of the armed services.

Mrs. Climaco is a licensed practical nurse and the mother of six children. She is married to Dr. Cesar Climaco, who is contesting the adequacy of the election petition of Cong. Price.

Challenger Fessler, 30, holds a political science degree from Quincy College and has taken graduate studies in international relations at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He is employed as an operating engineer for Shell Oil Co.

Citing former President John F. Kennedy's challenge to participate in public service, Fessler said he wants to represent "a generation of hope."

Although he served on the Alton Housing Commission, the current congressional race is his first try for elective office.

"I would once again like to see this country back in the hands of the people, and in the hands of the multi-national corporations which are holding the power of government," Fessler said. He would seek to eliminate multi-national firms' tax loopholes. "They result in the loss of American jobs,"

Fessler contended.

He cited tax loopholes as a major factor causing the "huge federal deficit," and he has been granted tax preferences granted to corporations and wealthy individuals.

He proposes an across-the-board taxing system "from beyond the poverty level to the top gross income, whether individual or business."

"All income would pay a set percentage to the IRS (Internal Revenue Service)," Fessler said. "The result would be a tax break for the average taxpayer."

He also supports raising tariffs and setting limits on imports that he feels are "tearing apart our supply industries—steel, automobile glass, etc."

Among legislative bills the candidate proposes to support are stronger anti-graft laws, "the unfortunate and elderly," funding for these human service programs and Social Security work come from funds Fessler expects from the across-the-board tax system.

Fessler opposes President Ronald Reagan's "new federalism" policies that would shift welfare programs to state governments.

He is married and the father of three children. Cong. Price did not appear at the candidate forum but is attending a number of party rallies and other public events in the Madison-St. Charles counties.

The East St. Louis Democrat, a former sports writer and legislative aide, was elected Congress in November 1944 while serving in the Army during World War II.

He has remained in Congress, serving districts of varying shapes that always included the Quad-City area, since that time—winning his 20th consecutive two-year term as a member of Congress. He is near the top in seniority nationally, and is an able primary and congressional delegation leader in terms of length of service.

Prior to becoming chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, Price was chairman of the Joint Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy.

An acknowledged authority on national defense and nuclear energy, he adds to the knowledge gathered through his Congressional research and hearings by also traveling to distant points in the world each year.

Along with his extensive committee and Congressional duties, which occupy him much of the year, Price also seeks to stay in close contact with local citizens and officials.

He prides himself on energetic and effective service to constituents, and it is regarded by many people as no coincidence that Scott Air Force, Belleville, has become and remains one of the most comprehensive and vital defense installations in the world.

In recent years, Price has cooperated with local efforts to free part of the Granite City Army Installation grounds and buildings for industrial development.

Critics say advancing age—well into the 70's—may hamper him, Admirers say, "With his seniority, know-how and skill, he can accomplish much more by lifting his little finger than most congressmen can achieve no matter how hard they work."

Congressman Price's magic rapport with voters has never failed him. The latest test of his standing with the public will be the vote tally in the mid-March 1982 primary balloting.

Whoever wins the Democratic primary will face a Republican opponent in the Nov. 2 general election.

The lone Congressional candidate on the Republican ballot next month will be Robert T. Caffery, of Greenville, an executive of the St. Louis Community Colleges.

5-day week urged, SIU fees to rise

SIUE President Earl Lazerson favors a five-day

weekly class schedule instead of the Monday through Thursday structure that has been emphasized as a fuel conservation method in recent years.

Aware that some students prefer the Friday through Sunday weekend format, Lazerson told some of them this week that he does not propose forcing any students to attend five days a week.

What he does want is for the various schools and departments to schedule courses evenly across the full work week, so that the instructional offerings will be available five days a week and the buildings will be more fully utilized. Students will continue to have a choice in deciding what classes and days to attend.

Also under consideration is a change from the present quarter system to two semesters, fall and spring. Students and other constituency groups will have a chance to participate in the quarter vs. semester decision; the five-day approach is part of a 1970-vintage official policy that never was altered.

An increase in tuition rates—discussed by the Southern Illinois University board at its Feb. 11 meeting—will be considered for action on its March agenda.

The proposal calls for tuition hikes of 15 percent next year for undergraduate and graduate students on the Edwardsville and Carbondale campuses.

Other potential increases are 25 percent at the School of Dental Medicine (Alton and Edwardsville), 33 percent at the School of Medicine (Springfield and Carbondale) and 35.5 percent at the School of Law (Carbondale).

Action on some student fee changes was completed at the February meeting of SIU trustees, with others to be considered in March.

The quarterly University Center fee for full-time SIUE students may rise from $35.50 to $39.

Tower Lake student housing rates are expected to be increased an average of 14 percent.

The quarterly student welfare and activity fee may be cut from $20.45 to $20.05 in the fall.

ENGINEERING OPEN HOUSE ON FRIDAY

The department of engineering and technology at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will hold an open house on Friday, Feb. 26, in the Science Building in observance of National Engineering Week.

Mayors to list city problems

The next meeting of the Southern Illinois Council of Mayors will be held Wednesday, Feb. 24, at the American Legion Hall, 109 N. Penn, corner of E. Washington and Penn, in O'Fallon.

Mayor Gary Mackey will be the host. The hospitality hour will begin at 6 p.m., dinner at 7 and the meeting at 8.

Secretary Kenneth Evers, mayor of Edwardsville, said, "We will not have a speaker this month. It will be a workshop meeting to prepare a top priority list of problems to present to the Illinois Municipal Problems Commission at its March 24 meeting to be held at SIUE, Edwardsville."

The mayors' executive board includes Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler.

President of the SICOM, which includes Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties, is Mayor Arthur Macke of Marissa.

Jobs, good schools, good roads.

"As far as passing bills, I think there are too many of them in there now," he told his audience. He'd be for fewer but better bills, he added.

Portell took the opportunity to take a swipe at a St. Louis reporter who wrote a highly unfavorable article about him several days ago.

Portell said he had had to "run against" that same reporter in the 1976 election for circuit clerk. "And now I've got to run against him again,"

Portell said the article contained "half-truths."

He said the reporter mentioned money taken from the city's office but did not go on to report that there was an investigation, and that an employee was prosecuted and made restitution.

He said the whole story hadn't been told, either, about his hiring in the circuit clerk's office of a former county official who had gotten in trouble with the law.

Portell said he had known that man from childhood, and that after the man "skidded down pretty low," Portell offered him a job.

The man has now overcome the problems of his past and heads a legal organization in 17 Illinois counties, Portell said.

He said he is proud of the help he gave. "If that's a sin, I'm guilty, and accept all the blame. And I'd do it again."

Referring to a mention in the article of quilts he raffled at the courthouse in 1979, Portell said, "I did it."

"Tonight we have a drawing and I think we have a quilt again," he observed. There was also a Garry's Gang T-shirt from the Garry Templeton days of the Cardinals.

Portell's opponents in the March 16 Democratic primary are David Vaught, an attorney in Fairview Heights, and Herbert Schumann, mayor of Trenton.

Young Polish farmers to visit

Farm families in this area are being sought to host young Polish farmers who are scheduled to arrive in the U.S. March 16 to participate in the Polish agricultural training program.

Now in its eighth year, the unique program provides a year's on-the-job training experience for agriculturists 22 to 32 years of age. It is designed to give participants a chance to experience and study the practical application of farm technology. Cross-cultural understanding also is fostered.

Specific areas of agricultural interest to the young men and women coming from Poland include horticulture, vegetable, fruit, dairy, beef, swine and poultry.

Host families provide the trained residents with a monthly spending allowance and also make contributions to the National 4-H Council to cover such program costs as domestic travel, in-service training and consultation.

Funds remaining at the end of the program are given to the trainees who successfully complete the experience.

The program is sponsored by the Polish Association of Agricultural Engineers. It is arranged in the U.S. by the National 4-H Council in support of the programs of the Cooperative Extension Service of state land-grant universities and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Farm families interested in serving as hosts are to contact Shirley Mills, extension adviser, 4-H youth, or Ed Bishop, international programs, National 4-H Council, 7100 Connecticut Ave., Chevy Chase, Md. 20815, or at 301-656-9000.

CPR class to start tomorrow

By JINNY TUETKEN

St. Elizabeth's Medical Center

Each year, heart attacks account for more than 350,000 deaths which occur before the victim reaches the hospital. It doesn't have to be that way.

What is done for a victim within the first few minutes after a heart attack may determine survival or death. Cardiorespiratory resuscitation (CPR) could make the difference, and anyone can learn it.

CPR is a basic life-saving technique, performed after a person has suffered "cardiac arrest" — that is, after the heart has stopped beating. It provides emergency life support until more advanced support is available, through a combination of chest compression and mouth-to-mouth breathing.

A trained instructor, certified by the American Heart Association, can teach you CPR. It takes hours, but could mean a lifetime.

Free CPR classes will be offered at St. Elizabeth's Medical Center, beginning tomorrow at 6 p.m. in the Hall. For more information or to make reservations, contact persons may call 797-8100.

million with such a rating, the governor said.

The latest sale complies with a freeze on state construction projects. If the freeze had not been put in place, the state would have sold $180 million more in bonds before the end of this fiscal year.

Thompson also cited two recent studies, one by the National Conference of State Legislatures and the other by the U.S. Department of Commerce. Both note that Illinois has fared better during current difficult economic times than have other Midwestern states.

A balanced budget is to be submitted to the General Assembly March 3.

Madison drills Wooden Shoes, 87 to 66

By ROGER KRAMER

MADISON — The Madison Trojans' 87-66 victory over Teutopolis Friday was one of those games Madison coach Larry Graham couldn't really get into, but...
"I thought Teutopolis would be much better than they were, and I think that affected the way we played when we got ahead by 20. It's hard for a coach to get into a game like this, but I don't mind these games because we don't see too many of them," Graham said.

Madison did not have to play intense defense to Teutopolis, in fact, they didn't have to play their starters as often as usual. It was a good chance for the Trojans to use their bench strength before the regionals this week.
"I was happy to get a lot of people in there. It helps our other people to play a lot better when they have to," Graham said.

Mark Zarr, the Trojans' leading scorer this season, was back in action Friday. Zarr, who was injured in an automobile accident Feb. 13 and missed the East St. Louis game last week, played portions of the second, third and fourth quarters and scored 15 points.

"He only practiced once this week, and he came out and played pretty well. I think our players were more intense when he got out there in the second quarter," Graham said.

The Trojans and Teutopolis were tied 18-11 in the first quarter, but the Trojans put the Wooden Shoes away in the second quarter. In the first four minutes of the period, Madison outscored Teutopolis 18-4.

The Trojans' 1-2-2 zone trap was particularly effective as it forced six turnovers which led to 12 Madison points. Part of the reason the Madison press was so effective was because Teutopolis had little experience against that particular press this season.

"To be honest, this was the first time in a long time that we faced a defense like that," Teutopolis coach Ken Crawford said. "It took our kids a while to adjust to the different style."

By the time Teutopolis adjusted to Madison's press, Madison had a 49-30 halftime lead.

In the first half, Mark Madgett, Shannon Manson and Carvel Claggett did the scoring for the Trojans. Manson scored 10 points in the first quarter before getting in foul trouble, and Madgett and Manson both had 11 points by halftime.

In the third quarter, Teutopolis shifted its defense to stop Manson, Madgett and Claggett, and that allowed Zarr to get in on the scoring. "They weren't defending Mark too much, and he was smart enough to take advantage of it and score some easy baskets," Graham said.

The Trojans struggled to build a 30-point lead, but the game degraded into an exchange of turnovers and Claggett and Manson managed to erode the margin somewhat.

Madison had its typical balanced scoring against Teutopolis. Manson led the attack with 18 points, Madgett and Zarr both scored 15 points, and Claggett had 13 points.

"I thought Carvel had a pretty good game," Graham said. "He made some pretty nice passes. He missed a few shots here and there, but he had a good overall game."

Ken Hemmen, a sophomore, led Teutopolis with 16 points, Ben Meyer scored 13 points for the Wooden Shoes.

Teutopolis, 12-11 for the season, has played both Vandalla and Lawrenceville, two of the better Class A teams in Southern Illinois this year. Crawford compared the Trojans favorable to those teams.

"If we can't get into the super sectionals, then I'm going to buy a ticket and be at the game. It ought to be a hell of a ball game," Crawford said about a possible Madison-Lawrenceville game in the supersectionals.

"Vandalla's a tough team, but I think Madison is a lot quicker than them," Crawford added.

shooting of Derrick Mosley. South's defense was able to hold Schaefer to 15 points, many of those baskets coming from offensive rebounds. But because South was double teaming Schaefer, Mosley had the open outside shot and pumped in 20 points.

"Mosley killed us over the top. When we have the size we do, we can't single cover Mosley or any of the other guys," Deterding said.

Edwardsville's size was also a factor in South's offensive play. Early in the game, South kept trying to force the ball inside. The taller Edwardsville team kept knocking down South's passes and stealing the ball.

With the inability to get their inside game flowing, South had to rely on its outside shooting. The person whom they turned to was Pat Linhart. Linhart was deadly from the baseline, making 11 out of 15 shots. He led both teams in scoring with 26 points.

Going into the fourth quarter, Edwardsville held only a slim three point lead. Bud Vallino, Edwardsville head coach admitted it was their height which ultimately allowed them to pull the game out of South's reach.

"We shut down the middle in the second half," Vallino said. "Even if their outside shots were still good, we were controlling the boards. If we controlled the boards, we knew it would eventually turn the tide. It was just a matter of getting the formation down, getting it effective."

Although Linhart kept South in the game with his outside shooting, he didn't receive much scoring help from his teammates. Edwardsville gave South the inside shot along the perimeter if the free throw line but none of the South players were able to capitalize on the opportunity.

Soccer for Fun, Inc.

PONTOON BEACH — A Collinsville man, who "thinks soccer is a great conditioning sport," is the new manager of Soccer for Fun Inc. located here.

Al Meehan replaces Belleville Area College soccer coach Mike Moore as manager of the indoor soccer complex.

Meehan, who never played soccer until he became involved as an interested parent, can be counted on as being a participant as well as a manager. A three-sport letterman while attending Purdue University in the early 60's, he played football, basketball and baseball. Last October, he was inducted into that university's Hall of Fame — only the second soccer athlete to receive the honor.

In the early 60's he was among a handful of soccer enthusiasts who can be credited with spawning interest in the sport in Collinsville. Meehan praised Collinsville resident and former German Gold Cup soccer team member, Willie Seim, as being "a driving soccer force in the area."

"They should have held a dinner for Willie when Collinsville won the state soccer championship," he said.

Things were not always as good for Meehan and company as far as soccer goes.

"In the early 60's," he recalled, "Seim and I began loading the kids, I guess they were about eight, for a game against a more mature Granite City team. Well, we found we were one player short of a full team, so we grabbed a neighbor kid, threw a uniform on him and versed him on the rules of the game in the car on the way over. I can remember telling him, 'don't use your hands.'"

"We lost the game 15 to nothing, but one good thing came of that game — the kid was grabbed to fill the roster, well, he stuck with the group long enough to become one of the first soccer players for Collinsville High School.

For the most part, boys Meehan instructed in soccer during the early 60's, became members of the first Collinsville soccer team in 1972.

The love and enthusiasm for soccer that Meehan displayed two decades ago is obvious still as he assumes management of the soccer complex.

Soccer for Fun is located on the south side of Pontoon Beach along Highway 111. Approximately 120 teams play weekly on the MSL regulation size playing field.

Spring leagues are now forming. Persons wishing to participate are asked to call Soccer for Fun during business hours at 797-0619.

Pressure the county board for adequate funds—sheriff

By PAIGET ST. JOHN
Rural residents attending a crime seminar last week were urged to put pressure on their County Board members in behalf of the Madison County sheriff's department.

Nine speakers from law enforcement agencies and community groups were on hand to discuss the problems of rural crime.

The two-hour program, in the Madison County Farm Bureau auditorium, Edwardsville, was extended past "quitting time," mainly because the topic of budget cuts in the sheriff's department kept coming up.

It all started after a question from a Holiday Shores man who had been burglarized twice in the last two months. He asked why there was not enough manpower to patrol his area.

Sheriff Emil Toffant took over the podium to reply, stating that he felt the sheriff's department is doing as good a job as it can with the resources it has.

Better rural protection, he said, could only come with more cars and deputies. "If you want to improve your problem," Toffant told the farmers, "you've got to support your sheriff. You've got to get to the County Board."

Toffant said he proposed this year that 12 additional deputies be added to the sheriff's roster, along with 12 new cars, but that the board turned down the proposal.

In the last few years, the department has dropped from 72 to 75 deputies and, sustained budget cuts, but is still expected to patrol an increased rural population, he said.

"I feel proud that we are one of the few departments that has actually seen a decrease in burglaries," Toffant said.

"There were over 200 less burglaries last year than the year before, and all because our people are going out patrolling."

Toffant told the audience his office is doing its best, but "there are some things that I can't do without, and money is one of them. And I can't control that."

During the evening, Toffant discussed budget cuts several more times. Other speakers encouraged their listeners to put pressure on board members to support the sheriff's department.

"We'll keep fighting the battle," said Major Fred Bright of Toffant's staff. "But it'll take the cooperation of everyone else in this county."

Bright and two others from the sheriff's department answered questions from the audience about ways to deter crime. The victim's "right to shoot at burglars" came up.

"That's a very hard question to answer," said Bright. "The law is based on your state of mind at the time. If you can convince the jury that you are in mortal fear of your own life, you might be clear."

Agent Larry Trent of the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation added that, although burglars are despised, there is not always reason to shoot them.

"Because he's a thief and in your house doesn't mean you have to shoot him, even though you'd like to," he said.

The best type of gun for a homeowner to keep in his house for protection, said Bright, "is one you are familiar with and know how to use."

Several crime deterrents were recommended at the seminar. Frank Thomas, manager of the Farm Bureau, encouraged all rural residents to mark their valuables with identification numbers.

Farm bureau members are automatically assigned an ID number that can be traced anywhere in the United States by computer, he said.

Engraving kits and markers can be rented or bought from the Farm Bureau, as can warning signs and stickers.

Beside the usual tips on leaving on lights, locking doors and having someone pick up mail and newspapers, other crime deterrents were mentioned. One member of the audience suggested leaving the radio on when the house is empty.

If the homeowner has dogs, he should make sure they come to greet him when he arrives home. "The first thing they do is knock out the dogs," said Jarvis Township Supervisor Glen Gindler. "If those dogs don't come out to meet you, stay in that car."

Deputy Sheriff Rosaline Huebener told women not to get out of their cars if they notice anything strange or different upon arriving home, especially at night.

"Just turn around and drive out of there," she said. "Get in contact with the police."

She also suggested that rural residents keep written instructions by their phones on how to get to their homes.

The instructions should list road names and be accurate

Schools hire 2; graduation dates chosen

Roger Knobloch and Leonard Smith were hired by the Granite City Board of Education on Tuesday night as building custodians in the school system. Specific assignments will be made later.

The selections fill two vacancies on the custodial staff.

Mary K. Rogers was chosen to direct the elementary chorus as an extracurricular task.

A leave of absence was granted to Ann Peters of the Wilson and Logan school faculties from this week until March 22 due to illness.

The board scheduled a meeting of its policy committee for 4 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 23, at the board office.

High school graduation dates for the spring of 1982 were established as Thursday, June 3, at South and Friday, June 4, at North.

Connie Thrasher and Treva Bridges, senior cosmetology students, were named to vacant positions on the Off-Campus Advisory Council.

The board authorized visits by Chief Hall/Town to the Niedringhaus and Emerson grade schools March 31 to present assembly programs on Indian lore and crafts.

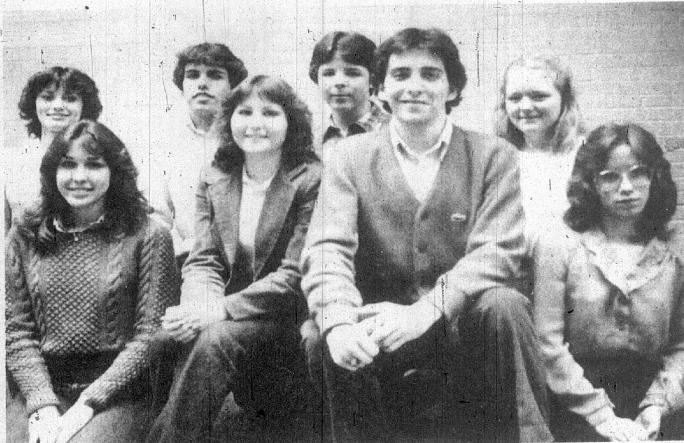

Under sponsorship of the Johnson School PTA, a program on nutrition and health will be presented to Johnson students by Slim Goodbody of the Captain Kangaroo children's show.

The March of Dimes will solicit assistance from students on a voluntary basis for a "march for life" to raise funds for that organization.

Students who volunteer will solicit money, prior to the event, from individuals at a specified amount for each mile that they run. The activity to aid the March of Dimes will be held at the Granite City Army Installation, with School Supt. B. J. Davis and Attorney Leo Konzen as co-hosts.

Mrs. Agnes Fryntko, Parkway School principal, will attend the National Elementary Principals Association meeting as a Region V delegate March 27-31 in Atlanta, Ga.

Foreign policy class members will visit Washington, D.C., and New Kenny McManus was the only other South player in double figures, scoring 11 points. He also pulled down 11 rebounds.

Deterding had no qualms about the play of his team. "We played pretty good basketball, not great basketball," Deterding said. "They just played better. It took a good night on their part to beat us."

"It just hurts to lose. I can't be upset with the kids. It's just the pain of defeat that hurts — not the way they played."

Chapter to mark 71st anniversary

Plans to observe the 71st anniversary of the Roublina Chapter of the Armenian Relief Society were reviewed at last week's chapter meeting in the St. Gregory Apostolic Church hall.

Cub scouts of Lake School will participate in their annual blue and gold banquet at Lake.

Polling places for the March 16 primary election will include Niedringhaus School.

The Niedringhaus School parking lot will be used by the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank May 14, 15 and 16 for parking of autos in connection with Home Show 1982 at the Wilson Park ice rink and pavilion.

The Granite City Township Center, 2060 Delmar Ave. The public is being invited to attend.

Mrs. Mary Bedian, secretary, gave reports and discussed a weekly class now in session at the Mesrobian American School. The classes are held each Friday in the church hall.

The group also heard plans for the society's 71st annual convention, scheduled to be hosted by the Roublina Chapter on July 21, at Westport Plaza in St. Louis County.

Refreshments of boreg pastries and coffee were served by Mrs. Roxy Pashanian-Manougian to 25 members after the business meeting.

"STRESS BACKACHE"

In this country, over six million Americans suffer from backache. In fact, the "stress backache" associated with high-pressure living... has just about replaced the ulcer as the new status symbol.

Neither the ulcer nor back pain can possibly add enough status to justify the suffering they cause. However, once you have had a stress backache, you can expect it to re-occur. It will not simply go away unless treated, that is certain. It may not be possible to eliminate stress from your life, but chiropractic care is often effective in treating the backache.

Call for an appointment for chiropractic treatment. Phone us today. Eliminate backache and enjoy life again.

Grassroots races—for precinct committee posts in the two parties—are worthy of Quad-City voters' interest Precinct committees are political party officers, not public officials. But they can make a significant contribution to the proper functioning of our governmental-political system, and we urge Quad-City voters to take an active interest in the precinct races they will decide March 16.

The committees—that is their formal title—include women as well as men, and perhaps should be known by some other name.

In any case, whether male or female, these elected individuals ought not be confused with precinct committeemen. The latter are appointive and assist the committeemen.

One aspect of the precinct system is its close proximity to citizens. When the positions are filled, everyone has both a Democrat and a Republican within his neighborhood with whom to discuss campaign issues and governmental services.

Precinct work often is a sleeping stone to broader service, as an alderman, a board member or a holder of some other public post. State Rep. Sam Wolf, for example, advanced to that office after active affiliation with his party's committee, and remained the Madison County Democratic committeemen's secretary-treasurer.

As indicated, the committee system works most effectively when there are enough people interested in serving in each neighborhood. Unfortunately, party ranks are thin in many areas of the county, especially the Republican.

There is an obvious preponderance of Democrats in Madison County—the Lord must love them, since he has created so many of them. But old-timers look on with some skepticism.

Despite the fact that one party outnumbers the other, it is worthwhile for both parties to organize in every block and subdivision. A vote here counts as much as a vote anywhere else, and Republicans often have claimed regional or statewide victories because they didn't ignore the importance of their party's turnout even in "enemy territory."

The Grand Old Party, in fact, holds one of this county's elective offices at present, aided by President Reagan's landslide in 1980. And many Republican state and national standard-bearers have gained unlikely Madison County majorities, outright as that might appear to be.

Counting the 67 precincts in the four local townships, the two parties can elect a total of 134 committeemen in the late winter primary voting. These results are final; there are no precinct contests on the general election ballot in the fall.

Worse, it erodes one of the fundamental safeguards of the judicial system. The perception of a conflict between the First Amendment right of press freedom and the Sixth Amendment right of criminal defendants to a fair trial is wholly unsupported by the objective evidence that judges would demand in a case at law.

This proposal flies in the face of the Supreme Court's own finding of a First Amendment right to attend criminal trials. And it ignores other remedies available to the court, such as sequestering jurors.

assured of re-election while 12 are in two-way ballot races. There is an absence of committee service in 38 instances in the Quad-City area; no one is serving in those precinct positions, and nobody is in the ballot next month either. In one case where there is no committeeman at present, a candidate is on the 1982 ballot.

These tabulations account for 101 of the 134 in the other 35 incumbent committeemen are retiring as of next month. A breakdown of these 33 situations shows a would-be successor is running in each of 12 precincts. There is one two-way race, but in 20 neighborhoods where committeemen are retiring, no one filed petitions of candidacy.

While these statistics show declining interest by the public, voters clearly have it within their power to reverse the trend. With the next election, there are 12 two-way races; another 58 precinct ballots will show no names; but there will be an opportunity for each voter to write in the name of someone he or she believes could serve well.

Quad-City Democrats' 1982 precinct "report card" shows 11 incumbents unopposed in 28 Granite City, four Nameoki, eight Venice and five Chouteau.

Democrats have 10 incumbents with election opponents (3 GC, 4 N, 2 V, 1 C). Ten are retiring and their successor is unopposed (5 GC, 4 N, 1 C).

One precinct (in Venice Township) with an incumbent retiring has attracted a two-way battle for the committeemen post. In three areas (all in Granite City), the committeemen are retiring and no one filed. There is one precinct (in Granite City) with no current Democratic committeeman and no one running.

Among Quad-City Republicans, eight committeemen are to be re-elected (6 GC, 2 N); two incumbents (in GC) have no position; and two are retiring in GC. In precincts where there are single candidates to succeed them.

Also involving the GOP in the Quad-City area, 17 are retiring without anyone seeking to replace them (7 GC, 3 N, 5 V, 2 C).

In one precinct (in GC) there is no GOP committeeman now but a candidate is running March 16. And in 37 neighborhoods (4 GC, 10 N, 15 V, 2 C) there is no Republican committeeman and nobody has filed to become one.

With these figures in mind, it is evident that the door is wide open to local adults who want to become active in their community and in their party at the grassroots level.

We urge Quad-Cityans to seriously consider taking advantage of this opportunity, and to offer their services to the electorate—their neighbors.

It has been accepted, nonetheless, by a significant number of judges and lawyers who are now urging the courts to resolve the presumed conflict in favor of the Sixth Amendment by holding closed hearings.

We think this conflict is largely an illusion created by defense lawyers setting up grounds for appeal.

On the contrary, a fair trial and press freedom are complementary; justice flourishes best in the open sunlight of full disclosure.

A criminal defendant's ultimate protection from tyrannical courts and ill-disposed juries lies in the First Amendment's guarantee of a press that is free to scrutinize, report, and criticize every aspect of criminal justice.

Instead as courts are allowed to retreat behind closed doors, the ability of the public to watch over the judicial system is clearly impaired.

Trust in the judicial system, if unchecked, would ultimately endanger the right of every American to open and impartial justice.

Taxation a burden to jobless

To the Editor:
In response to the letter of "Taxpayer," I would like to take this opportunity to ask that person, "Whose side are you on, anyway?" What nerve to suggest a tax increase. This may seem to be an answer to all the problems that he may see, but I am inclined to believe that this person is very short-sighted.

If this person were to take into account the latest unemployment figures, plus the fact that the total population of Granite City is decreasing steadily, it would seem that he would suggest an increase of taxes. But who can pay these taxes?

Surely he cannot expect the people already burdened with trying to get by from day to day, while the ruthless state bureaucrats breathe down their necks to get out into Granite City and find jobs. What jobs? Apparently, the more affluent persons in our society will not absorb these taxes, because they pay less taxes each year than anyone else. So, to whom can we point the finger of more taxation?

Are we to end up like our ancestors and resolve our dispute by having a "tea party"? Who would pay for the tea?

Webelos invited to Boy Scouts

Boy Scout Troop 46 of Nameoki School, will invite special guests, Webelos from Pack 46 and their families, to a Court of Honor, Monday, March 1, in the school cafeteria, at 4 p.m.

A Camp Sennen filmstrip will be shown and explained at the meeting. Special awards are to be presented that night as well.

Troop 46 along with Troop 5 and Pack 46 celebrated Scout Sunday, Feb. 7, in a special flag ceremony at the beginning of the school year. A special use permit by the Edwardsville Zoning Board of Appeals to establish a group home for consumers in Edwardsville.

The proposed site, located at 205 Myrtle St., Edwardsville, would have been an ideal location for individuals who desired assistance in achieving independent living skills.

The reason the permit was denied to Mental Health Services was on the basis that the location did not meet space requirements for such a project as outlined by city's zoning ordinance.

According to regulations, any boarding or rooming house in an R-4 zoned area needs fifty feet of frontage.

Mental Health Services will help each school with summer camp fees.

Special thanks from the troop was given to George J. Basarich, who donated his recipe and cooking abilities for the entire evening. He also gathered his Mississippi Valley Barbershop Quartet for an impromptu sing later that evening, entertaining the Scouts and their supporters.

Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. Carol Downing for her biscuit recipe and service donation. Troop 46 gave a cash donation from its proceeds to the Nameoki United Methodist Church for allowing them to use the banquet facilities.

TALK ON RESTORING PRAIRIE IN COUNTY
The public is being invited to a slide and lecture presentation, "Prairie Restoration" by Mark W. Hall, Sunday, Feb. 28, at 1:30 p.m. at the Madison County Historical Museum, 715 N. Main St., Edwardsville. He will tell of the history and ecology of the tall grass prairie that once covered 14 million acres—45 percent—of Illinois.

He will also explain how the Nature Institute is restoring a facsimile of this prairie world at the Gorden F. Moore Community Park, Alton. Hall is director of education and preservation for the Nature Institute, Alton. Refreshments will be served following the program.

Colonial Bank names 11 directors

Eleven directors were elected by the stockholders of Colonial Bank of Granite City at the sixth annual meeting in the lobby of the bank at 4:00 p.m. last week. Seventy-nine percent of the shares outstanding were represented, either in person or by proxy.

Directors elected were Christ D. Kacaloff, Carl A. Ranft, John W. Reese, Henry W. Ross, Robert J. Swiatek, John Tarpo, Donald E. Van Horn, Dr. George T. Wilkins Sr., Dr. George T. Wilkins Jr., Melvin C. Wiltmeyer and Charlie D. Wiltmeyer.

Chairman Ranft thanked the stockholders for their attendance and continued support during the past year. In spite of existing economic conditions of our local area, Ranft stated the bank's net income per share increased by 12.3 percent and the dividend of $1 share paid in December, 1981, was doubled from the previous dividend paid.

Chairman Ranft then introduced Donald E. Van Horn, president, who gave progress report on the bank's growth during 1981. He pointed out that total assets had grown to $13,293,834 by year's end, this represented a 12.2 percent increase from the previous year.

The directors' organizational meeting was held immediately following the stockholders' meeting. Officers were elected including Ranft, chairman, Van Horn, president, Richard A. Matt, cashier, and Charles R. Patterson Jr., assistant vice-president and loan officer.

The directors appointed Paul H. Lichtenberger as auditor to the board of directors.

It would have brought these individuals together, away from despair and loneliness, and helped the learn basic skill such as budgeting, cooking, nutrition, cleaning, maintenance, personal hygiene, proper dress, and job interviewing techniques.

By this, these individuals would have prospered and eventually left to become productive citizens in society.

Unfortunately, due to the decision of the Zoning Board, the group home will not be established at the proposed site, and more tragedies will continue to take place in the Edwardsville community.

Mental Health Services is dedicated to the idea of a group home for these people—a facility that when it is established will be named in memory of Rebecca Kittrell.

The agency will continue, with the help of the community, to establish a place for people who need assurance that someone cares—that the community where they live has not forgotten them.

about a possible increased fee for sewage treatment, but was told to call someone else or that my call would be returned—which, for some reason, it was not.

I then attended the county sewer committee meeting and was promised a copy of the agreement, which I still do not have.

Now, the brighter side of things. The day after the council meeting, it was brought to my attention that people did come in the rain, but was told that the meeting would be held in the city hall.

Upon being given the wrong address and the fact that it was raining, they missed the meeting, but said that they would be back next week (Tuesday), when the council meets at the Senior Citizen's (township) building, Feb. 23 at 8 p.m.

Questions treatment layoffs
To the Editor:
I would like to know what Aldermen (Warren) Decatur and (Jake) Varadian want from the sewage treatment plant.

Instead of letting their men get laid off, the workers decided to give up overtime pay, holiday pay and one man on weekends.

Other city departments decided to let their fellow workers get laid off and give up nothing. This seems to have been the thing to do. The other city departments are now left alone. The only place that is bothered is the sewage treatment plant.

The only mistake these men made was to give up valuable money, so that their fellow workers could also have a job. Their reward? The committee wants to lay off seven people.

Wolf vs. Pelek for local Ill. House seat

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Thanks to the Cutback Amendment approved by voters in November 1980, the Illinois House of Representatives after this year will be trimmed in size and the Quad-City area will be represented by only one House member instead of the present three.

That legislator will be elected Nov. 2, and the two candidates for the post in the Democratic primary March 16 are Rep. Sam W. Wolf, 62, and Leo Pelek, 51.

Rep. Wolf is the favorite at this point on the basis of his previous election victories and the endorsements he has received for 1982, but Pelek is campaigning actively.

Wolf is secretary-treasurer of the Madison County Democratic Central Committee.

Whether he or Pelek as Democratic nominee would have any November opposition is uncertain. No Republicans filed for the primary in the 111th House District, formerly part of the 96th Legislative District.

The new district includes Granite City, Nameoki, Venice, Chouteau, Hamel, Edwardsville, Moro, Ompheng and Pin Oak townships.

Each of 118 districts in Illinois will choose one representative this year. Formerly, 59 districts picked three each in cumulative voting.

Rep. Jim McPike, Alton Democrat, is running in the new 112th District. The other 56th District representative, Everett Steele, Glen Carbon Republican, is retiring from the General Assembly after this year.

The 11th primary opponents for a two-year legislative term, Wolf and Pelek, both are Granite City real estate brokers. Steele also is a real estate broker.

Wolf is seeking his fourth term as a representative in Springfield for this community.

Appointed to the state legislature Oct. 9, 1975, he served until January 1977. He was elected to a two-year term in November 1978 and then won another two-year term in November 1980. Pelek, a lifetime resident of the Quad-City area, announced his Assembly candidacy in December 1981. Married and the father of three children, he attended St. Mary's School in Madison, Madison High School and the University of Missouri.

Pelek commented in his statement of candidacy that "I have been going door-to-door, trying to meet as many people as possible and to find out their concerns and needs."

"The response has been encouraging and even overwhelming. I promise to continue an active campaign throughout the district."

"My main concerns are the economy, especially in this area, plus the rising tax burden, the prevalence of crime and violence, and the needs of senior citizens."

"I would like to create a new and dynamic link between the people and their representative. I would like to be their voice in Springfield, working for all of them and not just a select few," Pelek said.

"If elected, I would keep everyone informed, and knowledgeable about the issues, and would stay in touch with how they perceive the issues," Pelek added. He cites his real estate and business experience as helping equip him for service in the Illinois House of Representatives.

Rep. Wolf, who operates a real estate and insurance agency in Granite City, is a former Democratic national committeeman, having been chosen initially for that post in July 1976.

He became a Democratic precinct committeeman in 1966 and has been the party's countywide secretary-treasurer since 1970.

Wolf has served as a delegate to the mid-term conference of the national Democratic party and also as a national democratic convention delegate.

In the Illinois House, he has served on such panels as the Elections, Executive, Insurance and Environment committees, as well as the Energy and Natural Resources Committee and the Banks and Savings and Loan Associations Committee.

He has been a member of the County Problems Commission, the State Property Insurance Study Commission and the Legislative Advisory Committee to the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission.

Wolf was reappointed in January 1982 to the Motor Vehicle Laws Commission of Illinois. One of the latest commissions in the legislature, it was particularly active in the last session, proposing changes to the Assembly for consideration.

Its hearings and test demonstrations helped formulate legislation on rescue vehicles, trucks, cycle driver training, medical transportation, display of license plates, revision of registration fees, disposition of unclaimed vehicles, driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs, and other road and automotive topics.

Working with the Department of Transportation, State Police, Corrections Department, Secretary of State's Office, Department of Law Enforcement, Illinois Commerce Commission, Midwest Trucking Association, Illinois Office of Education and others.

Rep. Wolf and Sen. Sam Vadalabene were instrumental in the passage of a new law that tightens the regulation of driving by those under the influence of drugs or liquor. It went into effect Jan. 1.

The legislator and his wife, Mae, have two sons, Dave and Larry.

He was born in Venice and attended Venice schools. He has lived in Granite City since the 1940's and is a lifelong resident of the 56th District area.

A member of the United Steelworkers of America while employed at Granite City Steel, Wolf was loan officer and then assistant vice-president of Mercantile Mortgage Co. working there seven years before entering the real estate and insurance fields in 1954. He has taken business courses at Washington and Northwestern universities.

The state representative is a member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and the National Association of Independent Insurance Agents.

Past president of the Granite City Board of Realtors and Granite City Kiwanis Club, Wolf in 1977 and 1978 was a legislative assistant to the Illinois secretary of state, Alan Dixon. The latter is now the junior U.S. senator from Illinois.

Wolf handled extensive administrative and executive responsibilities during World War II, serving in the armed forces for five years and advancing in rank from private to chief warrant officer.

He was a personnel officer and assistant, in the field, at military headquarters. He served overseas in both the Asiatic-Pacific and European theaters.

Wolf has been active in the General Assembly in obtaining added homestead tax exemptions.

Laws which he sponsored authorize townships to deposit public funds in savings and loan institutions, equalize appellate court clerks' pay Downstate with the level in Chicago, increase the state's fees for supplying statistical information to various commercial facilities, and end duplication in reports required of the secretary of state.

He was among those who secured replacement of the corporate personal property tax, and he sees a need for further tax reforms.

Wolf opposed the scheduled reduction in the size of the Illinois House from 177 to 118 members in the belief that it will lead to greater Chicago area control of state lawmaking.

In reviewing 1981 Assembly deliberations, he says, "We held the line on spending while trying to make up for cutbacks in social programs at the federal level. Many existing services were trimmed of excess administrative costs to make them more efficient and to avoid raising taxes."

"Labor and business fared well. A compromise was reached on unemployment compensation that was agreeable to both interests. Coupled with a favorable court ruling, such problems in Illinois are on the way to a solution."

Some measures, such as elimination of the state inheritance tax, were postponed until this spring's session. And there were some problems that have defied solution up to now.

"The condition of our roads is continually deteriorating. However, an ongoing effort to put together needed highway legislation is progressing."

"I supported legislation to simplify admission of persons to nursing homes. It was signed into law by the governor Sept. 12, 1981."

"Signed Sept. 15 was a law giving more protection to abused children. It makes several changes that were recommended by the Department of Children and Family Services."

"A law that went into effect Sept. 17 is designed to help protect senior citizens against attacks by criminals. Judges may now consider the advanced age and weak condition of the victim when deciding what punishment is appropriate for those convicted of crimes against the elderly."

"I supported the domestic violence law that was signed by the governor Sept. 24. It allows circuit courts to prohibit an individual from striking, threatening or harassing a petitioner or the petitioner's children."

"A law that went into effect Jan. 1 eliminates probation for residential burglars. Illinois citizens have a right to feel safe in their homes, and this law serves notice to anyone thinking about breaking into another's home that he will face prison if he does."

"I also co-sponsored a House resolution calling on the federal government to support industrial development bonds, issued by governments to create capital for manufacturing and retail firms."

"There are several proposals before Congress to eliminate or alter these bonds."

"Since investors' return is tax free, such offerings are competitive with other investments. Development bonds have helped create more than 46,000 additional jobs in our state during the past seven years, including many in this district."

"It is important to note that studies show the revenue gained from wages on projects assisted by the bonds—has been far greater than the revenue that would be gained by raising the tax-exempt status," Rep. Wolf concludes.

New findings on pneumonia vaccine

The American College of Physicians (ACP) is recommending the use of pneumococcal vaccine in certain groups likely to develop pneumococcal pneumonia, but cautions against universal use of the vaccine in healthy persons; including those over 65.

Pneumonia is one of the leading causes of death in America and is a serious threat to health in the U.S., especially to many elderly persons. Pneumococcal pneumonia is one of the disease's most common forms.

The ACP recommendation is based on a study by the College's Clinical Effectiveness Assessment Project (CEAP), directed by J. Sanford Schwartz, M.D., an assistant professor of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. One of the statements and Dr. Schwartz's paper appear in the February issue of the ACP's medical journal, Annals of Internal Medicine.

Patients with chronic ailments such as absence of a spleen, sickle cell anemia, diabetes, alcoholism, or lung, kidney, liver or heart disease are at increased risk of death if they develop pneumococcal pneumonia and should be vaccinated, according to the College statement.

CEAP is intended to help physicians practice high quality, more efficient and cost-effective medicine. The CEAP team expects improved health care and significant dollar savings to result from use of its findings.

The American College of Physicians, founded in 1915, represents doctors of internal medicine (internists), related nonsurgical specialists, and physicians-in-training nationwide.

Through rigorous membership requirements, contact with health care officials in government and private sectors, continuing medical education programs, and projects such as CEAP, the ACP works to upgrade the quality of medical care, education and research in the U.S.

All corporations wishing to do business in the state are required by law to register with the corporations department and file an annual report," Edgar said.

"There is a penalty for late filing and all corporations are subject to dissolution or revocation of their charter for failing to file a yearly report."

Annual report forms have been mailed to 166,000 business corporations.

If a corporation has not received its form, it may contact the corporations department in Springfield at 217-782-7807.

PART OF SECURITY SQUADRON IN HAWAII
Airman 1st Class Daniel J. Bowers, son of Arnold R. and Mary J. Bowers of 2916 Idaho St., Granite City, has graduated from the Air Force security police specialist course at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

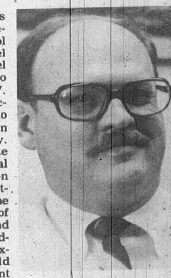

Bowers will now serve at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii, with the 15th Security Police Squadron. He is a 1977 graduate of Granite City High School South.

Chatfield heads GC Steel quality control

Dr. David A. Chatfield has been appointed vice-president of Quality Control at the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corporation, according to Division President James V. Stack.

Stack, Dr. Chatfield succeeds Eloy M. Cuelo, who has retired after more than 32 years with the company. Transferring to Granite City Steel from National Steel's Midwest Division (near Chicago), Dr. Chatfield most recently held the position of superintendent of Tin Finishing and Galvanizing there. In addition to his operating experience, he has held significant positions in plant metallurgy at the Midwest Division, and in research at National Steel's Research and Development facility in Weirton, W. Va.

He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Cincinnati and master of science and doctorate Ph.D. degrees in Metallurgical Engineering at Ohio State, joining National Steel upon graduation in 1965.

TALK ON KARMA USE
Ever wonder why you're here, and what you can do about it? The Institute of Mind & Dynamics, 6349 Clayton Road, has scheduled a free public lecture, "How to Use Your Karma to Your Advantage," Friday, Feb. 26, at 7:30 p.m.

Elizabethan feast planned

A complete 16th Century banquet will be presented as an Elizabethan feast, sponsored by Belleville Area College's Masterworks Chorus.

The Feast, as it was known centuries ago, features "tenderloins of beef" and wine. It will be held Feb. 26, 27 and 28 at the Visitors' Center, the Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows.

Guests will be entertained by singers and minstrels in authentic period costumes.

The evening will be presided over by the Lord Phillip and Lady Barbara of Nottingham, to be played by Dale and Nadine Flinders of Lebanon, and by their royal court.

Tootie was his girl
The Tootsie Roll, long a popular chewy chocolate candy, was named by Austrian candy manufacturer Leo Firshfeld, after a former girl friend, "Tootie."

Cards of Thanks 31 2307

WE WISH to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to all our dear friends for your loving support during the loss of our dear son, Keith. Thanks for the beautiful flowers, cards and food. Also for prayers and masses offered. Special thanks to Father Henry Schmidt, organist Jane Kozielek, Childrens Choir, Altar boys, Thomas Lesko and Bobby Jones, pallbearers, Mary Cramer, and Lahey staff. May God bless and keep each of you and your families. The Woodward Family. 31 22

Memorials 32 2307

IN LOVING memory of EARL H. SCHIBER, Feb. 24, 1981. So many worlds, so much to do, so little done, we know the big man, how kind he was, how kind he was, what had need of thee? For what we went strong as Fort true. — Sadly missed by Wife and Children. 32 22

IN LOVING memory of ANGELINE SCATURRO, Feb. 22, 1981. No one knows how much we miss you, no one knows the big man, how kind he was, how kind he was, what had need of thee? For what we went strong as Fort true. — Sadly missed by Husband and Family. 32 22

IN LOVING memory of ANGELINE SCATURRO, Feb. 22, 1981. God watched you while you suffered and knew you had your share, he tenderly closed your weary eyes and took you in his care. — Sadly missed by daughter Deb, Bob, Dan, Bob, Lauran. 32 22

IN MEMORY of EARL H. SCHIBER, died Feb. 24, 1981. Time speeds on, year has passed, since death its gloom, its shadow cast. Within my home, where all seemed bright, and light, and from me a shining light, I miss that light and ever will, his vacant place there is none to fill. Down here I mourn, but not in vain, for up in Heaven, we will meet again. — Sadly missed by Family. 32 22

Bill Talbert knows how to help during a disaster.

Do you?

Bill is an auto mechanic. He's also a Red Cross Disaster service volunteer.

Last year, Red Cross volunteers, like Bill, responded to over 40,000 disaster situations requiring on-the-scene assistance. More than 136,000 families were helped.

"Fortunately, floods, hurricanes and tornadoes don't happen every day, but fires do," warns Bill. "And for a burned-out family that's a major disaster. We can help these people obtain the things they'll need to resume normal living."

Red Cross emergency disaster relief provides everything from food, clothing and a place to stay to first aid, counseling and communications.

If your neighbors were burned out of their home, wouldn't you want to help?

We'll show you how. Join us.

Together, we can change things.

JERALDINE SAUNDERS 'Love Boat' launcher

By JACK WILLIAMS

HOLLYWOOD — For nine years she was the world's only known female cruise ship director, the original Love Boat Lady, witnessing vignettes of romance and adventure at the drop of an anchor.

"Every day was a book," she says.

So she wrote one. And another. And the result — a television series on ABC known as "The Love Boat" — has her up to her life preserver in royalties.

But Jeraldine Saunders, at 58, is much more than a cruise-director-turned-author content to rest on her laurels.

She's an ex-fashion model whose 5-foot, 7-inch, 120-pound frame bears the same dimensions as when she was a teen. She writes historical novels. She lectures and writes on nutrition, astrology, graphology, numerology and palmistry. She takes care of her 88-year-old mother ("my 150-pound baby"), presides over the acre of cultivated land on her Glendale, Calif., estate, and glories in a life dictated by "faith in a universal intelligence and health."

They are, she says, "the secret to a happy life. They make every day seem like being on a love boat."

Ah, a love boat.

Saunders, as cruise director of an array of luxury liners, used to greet visitors by saying, "This ship has very special loving vibrations, and you're going to have a good time."

They usually did, providing the author with more grist for the writing mill.

She still takes a cruise now and then, without the burdens of the 10-to-18-hour-per-day director's responsibilities. But her primary interest is hypoglycemia, a condition of low blood sugar.

She has co-written a book on the subject ("Hypoglycemia — The Disease Your Doctor Won't Treat," $2.95, Pinnacle Books Inc.) with Dr. Harvey M. Ross. And she says the case history of her late daughter, Gael, who died at 27 after suffering from hypoglycemia-induced symptoms, will be made into a television movie.

It was her own hypoglycemia and interest in nutrition that led to Saunders' first job on a cruise ship — that of a lecturer on nutrition.

"I went from doctor to doctor, seeking a cure for my stomach ulcers," she said. "It wasn't until I eliminated refined sugar and caffeine from my diet that I became healthy."

Now she preaches the anti-sugar diet to anyone who will listen. She claims more than 70 percent of medical doctors are incapable of diagnosing or determining hypoglycemia, and she cites figures that indicate the average American consumes 130 pounds of refined sugar per year, compared with five pounds 25 years ago.

Saunders' intolerance for sugar (a condition that varies from person to person) is such, she says, that she can't drink a glass of wine without becoming "deathly sick."

During the endless stream of cocktail parties aboard ship, she consumed grape juice, ordering it in Italian so as to create the impression it was an exotic cocktail.

Saunders speaks of her cruise career to this day with fascination and awe.

"From my first day on board, I could see the story possibilities," she said. "A cruise is like no other vacation. You wouldn't believe the romances. And for spouses it's like a second honeymoon."

But for Saunders it was a job. A hard one.

"I was so busy that I would explain to men not to waste their time with me," she said. "There was no time to play."

"I had to put out a newsletter, give lectures, conduct games — a little bit of everything — seven days a week, 11 months out of the year."

Two books — "The Love Boats" and "The Complete Guide to a Successful Cruise" — were spawned. And Saunders' TV script was adapted into a series that has run for five years.

All has not been clear sailing, however.

Saunders has filed a $2.5 million suit against Princess Cruises and Aaron Spelling for the merchandising rights to the series. In the meantime, the show is employing its own scriptwriters.

"They've used all my stories, and I still get royalties," she said. "But I would like to contribute more episodes."

The part played by Lauren Tewes in the ABC series is roughly based on Saunders' experiences.

Boone born Daniel Boone, pioneer and frontiersman, was born on Feb. 11, 1735.
